HALLOWEEN IN JULY? IT MUST BE TIME FOR HALLOWEEN COMIC FEST!!

As many of you may know, I love Halloween! My favorite thing has always been monsters... Godzilla, Frankenstein's Monster, the Gillman, the Mummy, the Tabonga (look it up!), Zombies... basically, if it walks, threatens, and evokes terror in those they encounter, then they're my kind of monsters! And you'll find plenty of these guys and their ilk in this month's PREVIEWS!

This month we reveal our Halloween Comic Fest comics and mini-comics for the first time, showcasing the titles you'll want to pick up at your local comic shop on October 26th, and the mini-comics titles you just might find in your own neighborhood (if you have cool neighbors, natch), or find on you own doorstep, as you hand them out to trick or treaters on Halloween night! Parents aren't always all-in on kids and candy these days, but they shouldn't have to think twice about kids and reading. It's a great combination! You can find them all starting on page 29 of this issue!

And speaking of Halloween, we have plenty of interviews to tie-in with this month's theme, including an exclusive talk with Eddie Campbell, the artist on Alan Moore's From Hell, which is being reissued in a new colorized edition starting this September from IDW/Top Shelf and Knockabout. Read all about the creation of the original series and the new Master Edition starting on page 254!

Elsewhere in this issue, we have six different mini-interviews with Cullen Bunn (Cold Spots, The Sixth Gun), W. Maxwell Prince (Ice Cream Man), Pornsak Pichetshote (Infidel), Sean Lewis (Coyotes), Eriq Esquivel (Fantasmagoria), and Eric Powell. You'll find these treats located randomly throughout this issue's Print section!

And speaking of Eric Powell, the creator of The Goon, Hillbilly, and Spookhouse has agreed to design this year's Halloween Comic Fest t-shirt! It's creepy and cute, all at the same time, and I know you're going to want to wear this one all year round—it's that cool! You can find it — along with other HCF18 promotional items — on page 39 of this issue!

Thanks for picking up this issue, of PREVIEWS. And don't forget that you can download a digital copy of this catalog (along with DC Previews, Marvel Previews, and Image+) with the special code included in every issue on the Consumer Order Form insert, located between pages 16 and 17. Just follow the directions and soon you'll be reading PREVIEWS on your phone, tablet or PC! Ain't technology grand!

See you at Comic Con, folks!

Your Pal @ PREVIEWS,

Marty

It's all work and lots of fun at the fictional Berke's Comic Shop in our new strip, Comic Shop Tales! Come back each month for a new tale, and go online at PREVIEWSworld.com for more strips during the month!

Where The Magic Of Collectibles Comes Alive!

Frazetta's "Death Dealer 6" Achieves Record $1.79 Million in Heritage Auction

During their recent comics and original art auction, Heritage Auctions sold Frank Frazetta's Death Dealer 6 original art for an astounding $1.79 million. The art, which was first published as the cover for Verotik's 1996 Death Dealer #2 comic, more than doubled the auction record for a piece of comic art.

In addition to this record, Heritage's auction of vintage comic books and original comic art soared to $12,201,974, achieving a world record for most valuable sale of this kind. The sale surpassed the previous record by over $1.8 million, a record set by Heritage in July 2012 with a sale of $10,389,821.

ComicLink Sells CBCS 8.5 Fantastic Four #1 for Record $121,259

In May, a copy of Fantastic Four #1 CBCS 8.5, which ushered in the Marvel era and introduced the superhero team, sold for $121,259 in the comic book session of ComicLink's most recent Featured Auction.

The same auction also boasted sales of Fantastic Four #48 CGC 9.6 (with the first appearance of Silver Surfer and a Galactus cameo) for $10,080 and #49 CGC 9.4 CVA Exceptional (containing the first full appearance of Galactus and first cover appearance of both) for $7,277.

The Overstreet Comic Book Price Guide #48 Available July 18

The 48th edition of The Overstreet Comic Book Price Guide will be available in comic book shops on July 18. Along with updated pricing, new market reports, and character anniversaries, this edition includes a look at the 80th anniversary of Action Comics #1 by former DC Comics President and Publisher Paul Levitz, a 50th anniversary study of Planet of the Apes' comic history by Terry Hoknes, and a look at Marvel's critical 1968 expansion by the Hero Initiative's Charlie Novinskie.

The new price guide displays a Flash and Green Lantern cover by Ethan Van Sciver and Planet of the Apes 50th anniversary by Ryan Sook. The Hall of Fame limited edition features an American Flagg! cover by creator Howard Chaykin, The Big, Big edition of the price guide has a Buffy the Vampire Slayer cover by Georges Jeanty, and the Hero Initiative limited edition depicts a Thanos cover by Joe Jusko.

ADAM GREEN

EDGE ESSENTIALS

Pick-up these books to learn more about Adam Green's Indie Edge style.

- Holliston: Friendship is Tragic TP (MAR181907)
- Adam Green's Hatchet Volume 1 TP (JUN181379)
- Adam Green's Hatchet: Vengeance #1 (See Page 286!)

Please tell us a bit about yourself!

I'm a writer and director of feature films and television series. I've made 10 films including the four Hatchet films in the franchise so far, the snowy suspense/thriller Frozen, and the genre-bending documentary-style creature feature, Digging Up the Marrow. My FEARnet sitcom, Holliston, has had two seasons so far, with a third season in the works.

What are your favorite projects you've contributed to over the past decade?

In addition to my various film and television projects I've also made about 100 short films and episodes of original web series with my production company, ArieScope Pictures, since we started 20 years ago. Over the past decade my favorite side projects have been my weekly podcast, The Movie Crypt, and my web series Scary Sleepover, where various celebrity artists join me for a childlike slumber party at my studio. I've done two seasons (29 episodes total) of Scary Sleepover so far, and filming each episode has been an absolute blast!

What are you currently working on?

I'm currently working on a new Young Adult television series that I created and sold to Universal/SyFy this past year. While it's still too early in the process to reveal any details about the SyFy series, fans of my sitcom Holliston will be happy to know that I am planning to get started on the third season once the cast's schedules can line up again. From the death of main cast member Dave Brockie ("Oderus Urungus" from the band GWAR) to our home network (FEARnet) being dissolved in a merger between Time Warner Cable and Comcast over the past few years, HOLLISTON has been through the kind of tragedies that would end most shows — but we're going to keep going! Given the success of Victor Crowley (the fourth Hatchet film from earlier this year) it is inevitable that another Hatchet film will get under way once I am ready, but I've always taken a few years off between Hatchet sequels so that I can focus on my many other projects.

What fun titles are you reading?

Black Mask's The Wilds (#1 2nd Ptg./JAN188846) by Vita Ayala and Emily Pearson is an immaculate, character-driven post-cataclysm tale, told by two of the best in comics right now.

Aftershock's Cold War by Chris Sebela and Hayden Sherman is post-modern science fiction with a style all of its own.

Image Comics' Ice Cream Man (V1: Rainbow Sprinkles/APR180546) by W. Maxwell Prince, Martin Morazzo, and Chris O'Halloran is an episodic sci-fi absurdity with as much heart as intensity.

USER'S GUIDE

There's a lot of awesome comics and products to look through in PREVIEWS. "A lot" might be a bit of an understatement, as each month's catalog is filled with hundreds and hundreds of pages of upcoming comics and related merchandise! It can be easy to accidentally overlook a new series you've been dying to read or a figure you've been pining to add to your shelf when there's so many things to browse. That's why we've put together this guide to help you learn how to use PREVIEWS like a pro to order the awesome titles and products you want!

Learn How to Use PREVIEWS to Order From Your Comic Shop!

WHAT EXACTLY IS PREVIEWS?

PREVIEWS is part catalog, part magazine (we call it a Mag-a-log!) of monthly listings of all of the upcoming comic titles and related products from your favorite publishers and manufacturers in one convenient place. And don't worry—PREVIEWS is organized by publisher and product type (and color-coded to boot!), to make it easy to find and flip to the section or items you're looking for. Each item listing has the information you need, such as format, size, page count, price, release date, stock or item code, and descriptive text, and nearly every listing is accompanied by artwork or images.

The most important aspect of PREVIEWS to remember is that items solicited in the catalog are anticipated to ship 2-3 months later (or more). For example, if you found a comic you wanted in the May issue of PREVIEWS, you can expect to see it turn up in your local comic shop in July. The catalog can be a great resource for figuring out where your favorite comic series is going, or for discovering new ones that you'll want to add to your library—not to mention all the other awesome products!

HOW DO I ORDER FROM PREVIEWS?

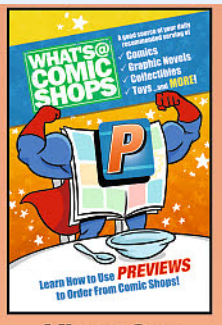
When you've picked out all of the items you want, you can fill out the Short Order Form included in your copy of PREVIEWS and submit it to your local comic shop. You can also ask your friendly neighborhood retailer about obtaining a Customer Order Form, a booklet that contains a complete listing of all the items made available for that month. These forms make pre-ordering your comics and products a breeze and can help your local comic shop decide what to stock in the store for other customers, too! Be sure to also ask your retailer about their pullbox or subscription service. Once you've submitted your order, you can sit back and relax, or try to contain your excitement until your comics and merchandise arrive!



View Our How to Use PREVIEWS Video!

Learn more about PREVIEWS, your local comic shop, and using a pullbox service!

IT WILL TAKE A SPECIAL TEAM OF ASGARDIANS TO SAVE THE GALAXY FROM AN ASGARDIAN WEAPON

Deadpool's Cullen Bunn and Matteo Lolli reteam for a new Marvel space opera epic!

Armed with an Asgardian weapon and determined to rule the galaxy, Nebula must be stopped at all costs, and that will take a team with specialized skills that span the Nine Realms in Cullen Bunn and Matteo Lolli's new Marvel Comics series, Asgardians of the Galaxy!

Thor isn't the only Asgardian who can save the galaxy, and this mission to stop Nebula will bring together an unexpected team — Angela, Thor's estranged sister; Kevin Masterson, the son of former Thor Eric Masterson and the current wielder of the Thunderstrike hammer; Throg, the Central Park frog who wields a sliver of Mjolnir; Skurge the Executioner, the legendary warrior of Gjallarbrú and recently freed from Hel; Valkyrie, the Asgardian warrior bonded to archaeologist Annabelle Riggs; and The Destroyer, the powerful and enchanted armor forged by Odin for his ancient war against the Celestials. This team might be able to save the galaxy and have epic tales told about their quest in mead halls for millennia to come... if only they can stop squabbling amongst themselves and get on with the business at hand!

Deadpool collaborators Cullen Bunn and Matteo Lolli team once more, this time for an epic space opera set in the world of Thor. Spinning out of events in Infinity Wars, Asgardians of the Galaxy will bring together fan-favorite characters along with some unexpected faces for an adventure befitting the gods of Asgard. If you loved Solo: A Star Wars Story and Joss Whedon's cult television series Firefly, this is the Marvel space opera you've been waiting for!

Gather 'round, friends, and lift a flagon of mead, for this September Thor's friends, allies, and enemies band together in common cause for an epic cosmic adventure in Bunn and Lolli's Asgardians of the Galaxy, coming your way from Marvel Comics!

BOLDLY GO WHERE NO TRANSFORMERS HAVE GONE BEFORE

Captain Kirk and the crew of the starship Enterprise and their mission to explore strange new worlds takes them to the strangest world yet — Cybertron, home of the Transformers — in IDW Publishing's new crossover event, Star Trek Vs. Transformers!

Nothing in the Federation's experience has prepared Kirk, Spock, and the crew for the experience of vehicles that are more than meets the eye, vehicles that transform into giant robots! Can Kirk end the millennia-long war between the Autobots and the Decepticons, or will the Enterprise be caught in the crossfire?

Written by Transformers scribe John Barber and Star Trek writer Mike Johnson, Star Trek vs. Transformers features the Enterprise crew as seen Star Trek: The Animated Series, featuring Lieutenant M'Ress, a felinoid Caitian, and Arex, a three-armed alien, and it's all drawn in the style of the 1970s animated Star Trek!

The Transformers certainly count as "strange new life forms," but will Captain Kirk survive the experience? Find out in Star Trek Vs. Transformers this September!

NETFLIX'S STRANGER THINGS COMES TO COMICS IN A DARK HORSE SERIES

On July 16, 2016, Netflix released a new television series, Stranger Things, created by the Duffer Brothers. Partly a nostalgic look back at small town America in the early 1980s, part coming-of-age story, part science-fiction, part horror, Stranger Things quickly became one of the most talked about television series in recent memory. This September, Dark Horse Comics brings the smash hit to comics with their new Stranger Things series!

Focusing on Will Byers and his journey through the Upside Down, a hellish dimension beyond ours haunted by unspeakable horrors like the Demogorgon, writer Jody Houser (Faith, Orphan Black) and artist Stefano Martino (Angel, Doctor Who) tell a side-story to the first season of Stranger Things that reveals backstory and secrets that will enrich the viewing experience and add depth to the characters.

Essential reading for every Stranger Things fan, look for the first issue of Dark Horse Comics' series the last week of September!

A BULLY BECOMES THE BULLIED IN SKOTTIE YOUNG AND AARON CONLEY'S BULLY WARS

Rufus had it made. He was the bully of his elementary school. Kids on the schoolyard feared him. They cringed as his shadow passed. He ruled the school. But high school is a different place, and his reputation as a schoolyard bully means nothing here. The bully has become the bullied... but there may just be a way for Rufus to turn the tables on his tormenters in Skottie Young and Aaron Conley's new series for Image Comics, Bully Wars!

To do so, Rufus will have to make an alliance with three kids he bullied mercilessly – Spencer and the twins, Edith and Ernie. Together, they might just be able to make a name for themselves and win the Bully Wars, a take-no-prisoners bullying competition that leaves the winner as the ruler of the school!

Bully Wars is all-ages mayhem in the mold of Diary of a Wimpy Kid, and it's exactly the sort of thing that would emerge from Skottie Young, the writer of I Hate Fairyland, and Aaron Conley, the artist of Rocket Raccoon & Groot. Prepare yourself for the Bully Wars, coming from Image Comics this September!

DISCOVER JAMES BOND BEFORE THE LICENCE TO KILL

Who is James Bond? What forces shaped Her Majesty's Secret Servant into the man who would hold a licence to kill? When readers met James Bond in Ian Fleming's Casino Royale, Bond was already a veteran agent in his mid-thirties, contemplating retirement. This autumn Dynamite Entertainment takes Bond fans back in time to the Second World War, to Bond's earliest adventures in the Royal Navy in James Bond Origin!

Orphaned when his parents died in a skiing accident, James Bond is a student at a boarding school in Scotland. With the United Kingdom standing alone against the might of Nazi Germany in early 1941 and the bombers of the Luftwaffe raining terror from the skies during the Blitz, Bond, like many young Britons, makes a fateful decision that will reverberate through the history of international spycraft!

Written by Jeff Parker and illustrated by Bob Q, Dynamite Entertainment's James Bond Origin is the definitive origin story of James Bond, 007!

IN THE AFTERMATH OF A CATACLYSM, FIVE TEENAGERS FACE THE LOW ROAD WEST

After the east coast of the United States is destroyed in a nuclear exchange, children are being evacuated west, away from the uninhabitable ruins back east. For five teenagers, their journey west to safety and new lives ends unexpectedly in rural Oklahoma in Phillip Kennedy Johnson and Flaviano's new book from BOOM! Studios, Low Road West!

The choices they face are stark. A "dust bowl" like the 1930s has kicked up and chokes the air, thanks to the debris and ash thrown into the atmosphere after the nuclear explosions. Civilization is already teetering on the edge. To survive, these five teenagers, brought together by circumstances they would not have chosen and could never have contemplated, must find a way to trust one another in a place where trust comes hard and potential dangers lurk in the dust.

A powerful story of the human spirit in the face of overwhelming adversity, Johnson and Flaviano's Low Road West launches from BOOM! Studios this September!

ARCHIE 1941 TAKES READERS BACK TO THE HOMEFRONT IN WORLD WAR II

In the spring and summer of 1941 war engulfed Europe. France had fallen to Nazi Germany, England endured nightly bombing raids. The Soviet Union was under attack as the Wehrmacht drove ever eastward toward Moscow. The United States was not involved, but the clouds of war were gathering. Mark Waid, Brian Augustyn, and Peter Krause take readers back to the summer of 1941 and explore how life changed that year in their new series from Archie Comics, Archie 1941.

Taking a realistic view of the era, Waid, Augustyn, and Krause show how Archie Andrews, Jughead Jones, Betty Cooper, Veronica Lodge, and their friends coped in the waning years of the Great Depression, reacted to the news of the Pearl Harbor attack on December 7th, and heard the call to enlist to save the world from the Axis Powers. The result is a unique look at a pivotal moment in American history, as seen through the eyes of some of the most famous characters in pop culture. Look for Archie 1941 this September!

TITAN COMICS

Ahead of their sixth novel adventure, NEWBURY & HOBBES join TITAN!

FEATURED ITEM

This month sees Titan Comics launch Newbury & Hobbes #1, the Diamond debut of a dynamic detective duo from darkest Victoriana!

We sat down with George Mann, writer of both the hit novels and the new comics series, to discover how he's tightening the gears on a series that will tickle the top hat of devoted fans and newcomers alike.

GEORGE MANN - CREATOR & WRITER
DAN BOULTWOOD - ARTIST

Tell me about this dynamic duo! Why do your readers love them?

George The Newbury & Hobbes tales take place in a world where Queen Victoria didn't die in 1902, but instead was installed in a 'life-support' throne, allowing her to maintain an iron grip on her Empire.

Sir Maurice Newbury is an agent of the Queen, charged with protecting the realm against incursions both corporeal and supernatural. Newbury has a dark side, though. He's an opium addict, and takes a little too much interest in the occult.

Miss Veronica Hobbes is ostensibly Newbury's assistant, but is herself an agent of the Queen, tasked with keeping a watchful eye on him. She has a sister, Amelia, who suffers from clairvoyant seizures, and has been locked away in an asylum.

During the course of the novels they do battle with terror birds and rogue automata, become entangled in an airship crash, uncover a plot against the Queen, are stalked by assassins with clockwork hearts, and recover relics from devil-worshipping cults!

In the new comic series, The Undying, they're facing the return of a villain they thought to be dead, as well as uncovering a horrific eugenics program and the creatures that escaped into London's sewers.

I think people keep reading these stories because of the characters. There's a certain attraction to a flawed character like Newbury, and a woman like Veronica, who's clever, capable, and decisive in a time that didn't appreciate such qualities.

Why steampunk? Why use new heroes instead of, say, Sherlock?

George I didn't set out to write steampunk, just something fun that drew on all of the things I loved – Hammer Horror, Sherlock Holmes, Doctor Who, Steed & Peel, Quatermass... that's where N&H came from. The result was more of a Victorian fantasy, with a host of weird mythological stuff.

There's nothing more liberating than creating your own characters, telling the stories you want to tell. I love the challenge of writing for a character such as the Doctor, finding new, exciting stories to tell – but I've created characters and stories of my own ever since I was a child.

You've written both novels and comics; what are the differences?

George I love both, but they're very different disciplines. Writing comics taught me a lot about the economy of telling a story – how to boil it down to its essential components, to get right to the nub. In a 22-page comic book, every panel counts.

The biggest difference for me is how you address action. In a novel you show every punch, but in a comic you tend to show the results, rather than the action itself. The action happens between panels It's about allowing the art to tell the story.

It's important to play to the strengths of the medium. When I sit down to write a comic script I'm always thinking about how I can utilize the page, how I can work with the artist to create something that could only exist as a comic book.

How did you gel with Titan's own Dan Boultwood?

George Novels tend to be personal, introverted projects, while comics are by nature collaborative. When you write a comic script you're writing for the artist, who adds something of themselves to it. The result is usually far greater than what I could have imagined alone.

This was my first project with Dan, and hopefully not the last. He seemed to just 'get' N&H from the off; the wry humor, the sense of adventure, leavened with grim, gothic horror. And he's a funny guy, too. The sort of person you want to drink gin with, before setting out to solve dastardly crimes.

These characters and their environments have lived in my head for so long that I was worried no one would be able to get it right...and yet when Dan delivered those first few pages, I realized he nailed it.

A graphic novel seemed a natural step for N&H. I've been a comic book reader most of my life, and for the last few years I've busily worked on comic scripts for Doctor Who, Warhammer 40,000, Dark Souls, Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles and others. I've loved every minute of it.

Newbury & Hobbes were my first creations – I've been writing them for 10 years. So when the opportunity arose to tell a new story in comic format, it felt like a dream gig, and hopefully an opportunity to introduce them to a new audience.

GEM of the MONTH

JEFF PARKER TALKS JAMES BOND ORIGIN

Who is James Bond, at the beginning of this series?

James is a young man at school starting to carve out a life when war touches him, as it did for millions. He's familiar with loss- his parents died in the Alps a few years before, but James is all that's left of them and isn't going to go down without a fight.

How do you and your collaborator Bob Q approach the setting and the context of the series?

Bob and I dig through historical records and ask our learned friends who know some details better. But it's not just war stories, it's James Bond's war stories in particular and we try to see it all through the eyes of a young man who is thrown into the greatest conflict of all time and determined to make a difference. He's not yet the suave secret agent with steel nerves because he's stared down Death so much in his past, this is the journey that makes him that man.

Does James Bond Origin tie directly into the classic Ian Fleming novels?

Yes, and is advised by the Ian Fleming estate. In the books, Fleming later filled in some details of Bond's history, and we navigate by those mileposts.

Your story is set in 1941. Are there plans to follow Bond through to the end of World War II?

There are, we follow through 1945 in Origin. You get to see the early operations that will become MI6, when British Intelligence- like James- also hasn't figured everything out. James' time in the war is dynamic; while he is rising through the ranks in the Navy he also keeps ending up outside the missions, closer to the secret forces that drive the fight. We want to show that he was going to end up in the kind of life he has as an operative no matter what, and his superiors realize the wisdom of harnessing that for Her Majesty's Service.

LLOYD KAUFFMAN TALKS THE ART OF TROMA

For those that don't know, what is Troma?

Michael Herz and I established in 1974 after meeting at Yale. Troma is the longest-running independent movie studio in history, and it's one of the very few genuine brand names in the industry. World famous for movie classics like Kaufman's "The Toxic Avenger," Trey Parker's "Cannibal, the Musical," "Poultrygeist: Night of the Chicken Dead," "Class of Nuke 'em High," Charles Kaufman's "Mother's Day" and "Tromeo & Juliet," Troma's seminal films are now being remade as big-budget mainstream productions by the likes of Brett Ratner and Steven Pink. Early work of many of today's luminaries can be found in Troma's library of 1000 films, cartoons, TV shows and shorts. Jenna Fischer, Robert De Niro, Dustin Hoffman, Kevin Costner, Fergie, Vincent D'Onofrio, Samuel L. Jackson, James Gunn and Eli Roth are just a few.

Troma movies have not just been influential, but have also been disrupting media for 44 years.

How is it that Troma has remained an independent movie studio for over forty years?

We've prospered for over 40 years because we make movies of the future. An audience may love "Tromeo & Juliet," or they may hate "Return to Return to Nuke 'Em High aka Vol. 2," but they will never forget "Citizen Toxie." All the movies that we have made are fueled by our hearts, our minds, and our souls. And of course we always keep our fans in mind. We know that the main reason Troma has been around for 44 years is that our very loyal and active fans make movies, promote our movies, and help us financially in a world that is run by a small number of mega conglomerates.

We love our fans and they love us.

What makes a great Troma movie poster?

People have to look twice at a Troma poster, unlike any other posters the industry offers. Not only has Troma discovered brilliant new actors and directors, we've also discovered brilliant new artists whose work is more daring and attention getting than the mainstream. A Troma movie poster needs to capture the themes of the movie in one shot.

Unusual titles like "A Nymphoid Barbarian in Dinosaur Hell," "Surf Nazis Must Die" and "Bloodsucking Freaks" add to the uniqueness and originality of Troma. Pair these titles with a just as unique piece of artwork and you have a classic Troma poster.

Is there such thing as "TOO gross" for a Troma film?

Not only are our movies extremely entertaining and have sex and violence that some may consider "too gross," our fans know that every movie we make deals with important political and sociological issues. For instance, "The Toxic Avenger" was about the negative impacts society has made to the environment and "Poultrygeist: Night of the Chicken Dead" was about the rampant toxicity spread by fast food chains.

No. As long as there is artistic expression inside all the slime, blood and various bodily fluids, we're good with it. As Shakespeare said, "To thine own self be true." As long as that maxim exists, there is nothing too gross or controversial for Troma.

Our movies are entertaining and challenging, and we do not compromise. Our fans love that fact.

Eisner Award-nominated writer Phillip Kennedy Johnson (The Power of the Dark Crystal, Aquaman) and artist Flaviano (America, Grayson) present a new limited series.

In the aftermath of a nuclear first strike that has left the East Coast uninhabitable, five teenagers are being sent west, away from the wreckage that was once their home.

Halfway through the Oklahoma Dust Bowl, the shuttle that promised safety has broken down, stranding them in the middle of nowhere with only one another to count on.

Their only hope seems to be a town just on the edge of the horizon, but the closer they get the stranger things become. If they want to survive, they will have to learn to trust one another—and with society crumbling around them, trust does not come easily.

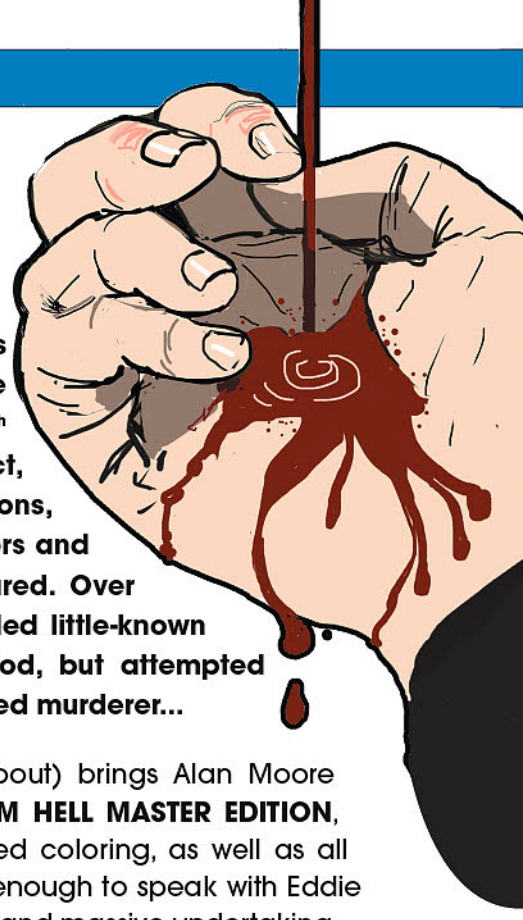
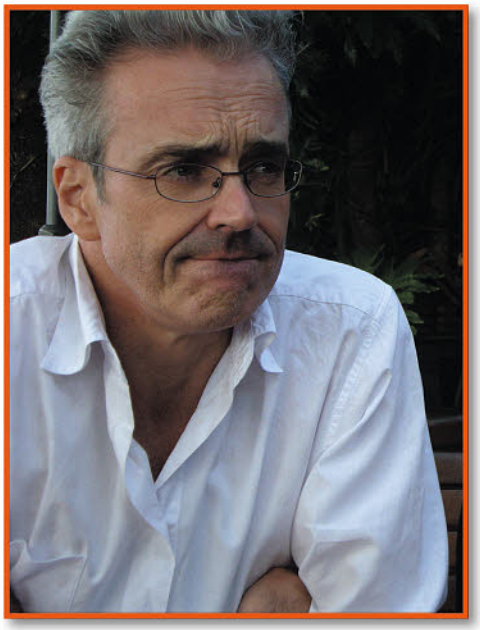
FROM HELL AND BACK: THE EDDIE CAMPBELL INTERVIEW



Thirty years ago, Alan Moore and Eddie Campbell, two of Britain's most revolutionary and unique voices in comics, joined forces for the epic limited series, FROM HELL. Not so much a celebration of the 100th anniversary of the "Ripper" murders in London's Whitechapel district, FROM HELL was better described as a dissection or autopsy of the persons, locations and events that made up the case, as well as the various rumors and legends that emerged over the years since Jack the Ripper disappeared. Over the span of the series' ten issues, Moore and Campbell not only revealed little-known information about the Ripper, London, and British society of the period, but attempted to perhaps reveal a possible identity of the mysterious and brutally talented murderer...

This July, IDW's Top Shelf Publishing (in association with the UK's Knockabout) brings Alan Moore and Eddie Campbell's landmark series back to comic shops with the FROM HELL MASTER EDITION, a newly colorized and updated version of the series featuring newly added coloring, as well as all of the annotations for the collected issues (two per volume). We were lucky enough to speak with Eddie Campbell about the new edition as well as the background on this important and massive undertaking.



PREVIEWS: How did From Hell originally come about? Did Alan Moore approach you, did you approach Alan, did a publisher put you together on the thought that the two of you would work together well?

Eddie Campbell: It was 1988, one hundred years after the infamous Whitechapel murders. It was thirty years ago this year that we started From Hell, and twenty years ago that we finished it in 1998. An invisible curve rising through the centuries. Can history then be said to have an architecture? The notion is most glorious and most horrible. Actually, Alan Moore talked to Steve Bissette about writing a serial about the subject to start in the second issue of Bissette's anthology, Taboo. They started casting around for an artist and I was nearby as I was one of the contributors to the first issue of the same anthology with a peculiar and disturbing little story titled "The Pyjama Girl." I must have seemed an odd choice at the time because horror was not a subject that I had dipped into and "The Pyjama Girl" was almost unclassifiable. But Alan wanted to come at this thing from an unusual angle. Several chapters would appear before anybody except Ripperologists knew it was to be about the Whitechapel murders, or any murders for that matter. It was important to set our events in a world of studied normality.

P: From Hell has the story of the Jack the Ripper murders at its core, but it seems to be about something much wider than that, namely, the birth of the modern world. How would you characterize the book, and what did you want readers to take away from it?

EC: Well, when Alan gets going he's like the lava out of that volcano in Hawaii, sweeping up everything in his molten path. Quite early he lays out the architecture of London in a Satanic pattern, but the compelling idea he's getting at is about the architecture of Time, as I hinted above. We come to see that this isn't just a factual retelling of the case, or a forensic investigation in the form of a narrative, though there is the kernel of that in the flesh of the story. There is enough of that to keep the Ripperologists busy, but the real heart of the book is something deeper. The world teetering on the brink of the 20th century, whatever that was and whatever we think made it something to take account of.

P: How versed were you in Ripperology when you began work on From Hell? Did you have a preferred suspect for the killings before working on it?

EC: I had read the paperback book that proposed the conspiracy theory, because a friend had put it in my hand and told me to read it. That was about ten years before From Hell. Conspiracy theories are, by their nature, always great stories and totally convincing. You can have multiple theories, with each one being a certainty, but all of them can't be true at the same time. Jack the Ripper, for some reason, continues to grab the imagination. I have been vaguely aware that a handful of new theories have come along in the last few years since we finished with it. But I have never gotten involved with them enough to want to place a bet on any particular suspect. And I'm certainly not claiming that our book names the man once and for all. That was never what interested us. We introduce our grandiose villain right at the start and from there it's about getting inside his mind. We're not interested in playing whodunnit parlor games.

P: How extensive was your research in recreating the Victorian world for From Hell? How much time did you spend poring over books and photographs, perhaps even walking the streets of Whitechapel?

EC: It all seems so long ago now, and it was a lot of hard work. But my theory about setting a book in the past is that the details of gaslamps and top-hats should quickly become familiar and the reader should be like a Victorian, who walks down the street and hardly notices his or her environment just as we take ours for granted. The artist should focus on the things that make us alike rather than different. The way we bunch up inside our coat at the approach of winter, the mouthwatering appreciation of the froth on an amber beer, the scratchy irritation of sleeplessness...

P: What was it like working with Alan Moore on From Hell? What were his scripts like? (We heard a rumor that Moore wrote the story in a long-form letter rather than a traditional script.)

EC: You must remember that we started out in England in the 1980s, and the whole business of making comic books being then foreign to us, we felt at liberty, or compelled I should say, to make up our own ways of doing it. Alan scripts in such a way that he sees the whole thing complete in his head and describes what he is seeing in very precise detail. He scripts a picture that works because he sees it as a picture in his head. He doesn't see it as a movie, or some recollection of something that may or may not have once taken place. He describes a picture, down to telling you what size it is, what the characters are wearing, what the background details are, and then describes the picture next to it, and if there are eight pictures on the page instead of nine, with two portions of the grid adjoined to make a one larger image, he tells me that right at the top. And much of it is beautifully poetic. I often thought it was sad that only I was reading it all. (Check out the From Hell Companion (MAR131301) if you want to learn more on this theme.)

P: From Hell: The Master Edition will feature the story in color for the first time. Why did you decide to colorize From Hell, and what's your working process for colorizing the original black and white artwork?

EC: When we made the work as a serial in the first place, color was just out of reach for economic reasons. And in Britain that was no big deal. We were well used to black and white. So, I designed the art to be essentially monochrome and that was part of the character of the book. Later, I even resisted an offer to color it in because at that time it would have meant brushing colored inks over reproductions of the pages, or doing mechanical hand-separations like the way color was done a hundred and more years ago. I remember we were doing it that way on our covers in the late 1980s. It was labor intensive and no way to do a whole book, so colors tended to be simplistic by default. Computer coloring only started coming into play in the 1990s and that has enabled quite a different way of doing colors nowadays. We can do 'millions' of hues without thinking too hard, although it is no impediment to success to put a lot of thought into it, I should say. Put simply, color gives me a whole new layer of expression to add to the many layers that already make up From Hell.

P: One memorable sequence in From Hell is the tour of London in which Sir William Gull explains to the coachman, Netley, the occult meanings of the architecture of Nicholas Hawksmoor's churches. We understand you are adjusting some of the artistic details in this sequence for the new edition of From Hell. Was this behind the remastering and coloring of From Hell, or had the idea of revisiting From Hell and updating it been working at the back of your mind for a while?

EC: In thirty years one gets to second guess a lot of the artistic choices. And there are things that are just facts, like the way a horse's legs and shoulder muscles move when it is starting to pull a coach in contrast to when it is stopping. And just the way a coach is built. Every time I would see one in a movie or in a museum I would want to go back and fix something in the book. Well, now I get to fix a lot of stuff, but I hope to do it without rupturing the ragged informalities that made the thing work in the first place; that youthful arrogance that gives us the panache to make it look like we know more than we do. In the second volume, the one with the coach tour of London, the older reader will find that there are ten or a dozen replaced panels he has never seen before. But Han still shoots first.

P: For readers of the original From Hell, what sort of new experience do you hope they will have with the Master Editions? For new readers, what do you hope they will discover in the book?

EC: The Master Edition is so vivid that it will make the experience of reading the old version feel like you were seeing it though a woolly sweater. It will be like seeing From Hell for the first time. And for the new reader, they WILL be seeing it for the first time.

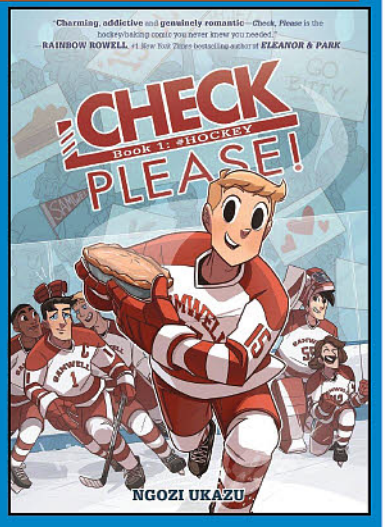
STAFF PICK

CHECK PLEASE! BOOK 1: HOCKEY

Recommended by Megan Cosman



As I am writing this staff pick for you, our most superb PREVIEWS reader, to peruse, I am also biting my nails off and cursing under my breath that my favorite NHL team is losing in an NHL playoff game. In my humble opinion, hockey and comics are a perfect pair which is exactly why I am obsessed with Check Please! Book 1: Hockey, written and illustrated by Ngozi Ukazu from :01 First Second Books.

Meet Eric Bittle, a former junior level figure skating phenomenon turned hockey player at the start of his Freshman year at Samwell College in Boston. Timid, small, kind, and as sweet at the pies that he loves to bake, Eric, nee "Bitty," takes you through the year of a first-year team member via his vlog and real time updates. Laughs are abundant as gentile southern boy Bitty attempts to build relationships with his teammates who live the typical College Bro lifestyle to a T, and learns that hockey is bigger than what happens on the ice.

For fans of the original web comic will be pleased to see that Ukazu has put together Year 1 and 2 of the series here for a beautifully collected 288-page story. This charming tale of growing up and realizing your life's truth is charming and sweet. Bitty's personality pops off the page and reads as though he is speaking to you as your best friend. You're happy when he's happy, and nervous for him when he tells his teammates his big secret. The charm and brooding of Jack is what all young love crushes are made of, while the off the ice antics of Random and Holster are hilariously bro-ish (see: Winter Screw).

Check Please! Book 1: Hockey is a fun story about the best years of a young man's life with some body slamming into the boards thrown in for good measure.

Check Please! Book 1: Hockey* is what you'd hope The Mighty Ducks 4: College and Beer Years would end up being.

Disregarded, disrespected and dismissed, Renny has a chip on his shoulder. Once an equal partner in a criminal syndicate that rules Las Vegas, he now finds himself living in a shack in the desert. But the shack has a workshop, and Renny's been busy. It's time to march his robot army into the neon hell of a cyberpunk Vegas and retake his seat at the table. Or take the wood from the table and build enough caskets for the whole syndicate.

Old friends better run, because Operation PATIENCE! CONVICTION! REVENGE! is underway. Like an Elmore Leonard novel set in the world of Blade Runner, PATIENCE! CONVICTION! REVENGE! is offbeat and often funny, but all about the dark corners of cities and minds. A violent criminal genius with a bad case of monomania makes for the most fun you'll have with a comic this year.

Written by Patrick Kindlon (There's Nothing There, We Can Never Go Home) and drawn by Marco Ferrari (Famous Monsters Presents) PATIENCE! CONVICTION! REVENGE! continues Kindlon's exploration of difficult characters and irreverent themes. Having broken the chains of good taste, Kindlon goes all-in and writes a vengeance-obsessed lunatic as if he's riding beside him—all wrapped in a gangster tale like no other, a tale that HAD to be told at AfterShock!

VOL. 1 TRADE PAPERBACK

Panacea Cryonics promised a life after death, by freezing the heads of their clients and reviving them in the near future, when technology would guarantee them a life free of disease and trouble. However, as clients are finally revived, they learn this corporate pitch was too good to be true—instead of stepping into a life of their dreams, they awaken into a never-ending nightmare.

The world is at war—and this recently revived group of every day people are handed a gun, body armor and an ultimatum: they must fight in this war, against unknown opponents and horrors, in order to secure their place in a brave new world that doesn't want them around.

And as these normal people survive wave after wave of technologically advanced horrors, they soon realize the answers to their questions are no comfort, and the future that they wanted might never be in sight.

From Christopher Sebela (Blue Beetle, Kiss/Vampirella, Evolution) and Hayden Sherman (The Few, John Carter: The End) comes an uncompromising science-fiction epic, as violent as it is beautiful. COLD WAR Volume One contains the entire pulse-pounding first arc, issues 1-5.

AHOY COMICS™

WHAT IS AHOY COMICS? There's a story behind our name, but we're not going to tell you--yet. In the meantime, think of it as shorthand for:

ABUNDANCE! More pages of comics. Text pages that give you short stories, satire, poetry, criticism, illustrations, and cartoons. No expense spared to publish substantial comics magazines you can spend more time with.

HUMOR! The world isn't getting any happier, but we still have to live in it. If we can't always smile, we can at least laugh.

ORIGINALITY! Cats in space. A second-rate afterlife. Masked crime-fighters ripped away from their respective comics. The funny side of Edgar Allan Poe. If you've already read anything like it, we're not going to publish it. No writers' rooms, no whiteboards, no house style. No, no, no--

YES! Yes to monthly comics. Yes to collected editions. Yes to meaningful stories, dramatic art, and beautiful design. Yes to working and shipping on schedule. Yes to the fine production details that make enjoyment effortless. Yes to page numbers! Yes to comics for comics' sake. Yes to people who love to read.

So! Memorize the above, place your right hand on a comic book, and say it with us:

ERIC POWELL

PREVIEWS: Introductions, please!

ERIC POWELL: I'm Eric Powell. Our company is Albatross Funnybooks. We are best known for the Hillbilly series (Vol. 1 / JAN171227) and creating socially awkward situations...

P: Which horror properties are you working on right now?

EP: Spook House 2! It's a new four-part weekly sequel to our all-ages horror anthology (Vol. 1 / AUG171134).

P: Who is your favorite horror character, and why?

EP: The Frankenstein Monster is definitely my favorite! I love tragic monsters and especially the original Universal Karloff design.

P: What is your horror "white whale"? What horror character or crossover would you love to create a comic series about?

EP: It seems like every possible license in pop culture has been mined at this point. So, I don't think there are many horror-related properties that haven't been done...

For comic book characters, I think I could do a good job on Jack Kirby's The Demon (JUL170472) if I could take the book back to its roots of being a big monster comic. But that contingency also guarantees it will never happen.

STRANGER THINGS #1

Recommended by Jim Kuhoric

In the comics medium, we have a long history of licensing popular TV and film properties and providing additional expansion stories from our favorite programs. My first exposure to it was as a kid when Star Wars and Battlestar Galactica comics were coming out in the late '70s. I devoured those books, reading them multiple times each, as it was a way to get even more enjoyment from the characters and concepts that I cherished. Now, 40 years later, I feel some of that same excitement over Dark Horse's upcoming Stranger Things #1.

In this new story we follow Will Byers into the "Upside Down" to reveal what happened to him off-screen during Season One of the groundbreaking Netflix series. Alone and unable to escape the decay dimension, Will has to evade the Demogorgon and survive where nothing natural lives.

Stranger Things took the world by storm with its innovative story, compelling characters, and nostalgic '80s approach to storytelling. These days... I may look like Hopper on the outside, but I still feel like one of the kids waiting for a chance to read more stories from the world of Stranger Things on the inside!

Arthur Bellfield and Charles Fortner explore why one superhero might give up and another turn bad in "Negative Influences". Killer cupcakes are bad enough, but then sweet Sioux butts heads with the Jelly Bean Knights in the full-contact whimsy of Mary Bellamy's "Cosmic Cupcake Chaos". And the world's most dangerous assassin must protect her family from the organization she once worked for in "Victoria Black", by Bradley Golden and Dan Garcia.

W. MAXWELL PRINCE

PREVIEWS: Introductions, please!

W. MAXWELL PRINCE: I'm W. Maxwell Prince, and I currently write Ice Cream Man for Image Comics. Folks might also remember me from One Week in the Library (SEP160780) or The Electric Sublime (JAN170571).

P: Which horror titles are you working on right now and how would you describe them to fans looking for an eerie read this Halloween season?

WMP: Ice Cream Man (Vol. 1: Rainbow Sprinkles / APR180546) is an anthology series of "one-shots." The stories in each issue have no clear link to each other, save for a magical-ish Ice Cream Man that pops up in all of them.

P: What is something you hope to accomplish with your Horror storytelling?

WMP: My biggest hope is to make sad stories. If those stories also happen to be horrific, I'll chalk it up to some sort of overlap between despair and fear — which sounds about right to me.

P: Who is your favorite horror character, and why? Did they influence or inspire your own approach to character development in Horror?

WMP: I think my favorite horrific figure would have to be "Edgar" from the first Men in Black movie. Ain't nothin' scarier than a bug walking around in an "Edgar suit"!

In a heartbreaking parting, a man gives his wife and daughter a last kiss and boards a steamship to cross the ocean. He's embarking on the most painful yet important journey of his life: he's leaving home to build a better future for his family. Shaun Tan evokes universal aspects of an immigrant's experience through a singular work of the imagination. He does so using brilliantly clear and mesmerizing images. It's Spreading… Dellec is really an everyday man caught up in a blur of immorality, yet his quest is always clear–destroy the forces of evil where they flourish–and even places where the lines of good and evil are not easily defined. Following a tragic set of circumstances leading to his wife's murder at the hands of a malevolent Demi-God named Tera, our hero lands headfirst into the battle between good and evil–and his chances for survival are grim. Mankind held sway over the world for thousands of years and their hubris over that time has made them powerful but when faced with the divine, can mortal weapons put an end to the second coming of the gods? As the world tumbles toward apocalypse, a group of scientists seek to do the impossible...give birth to the gods of science. Each volume collects six issues of the series.

"In Rover Red Charlie, an uncomprehending dog's-eye view of the apocalypse, perhaps the medium's finest writer essays a breathtaking feat of the imagination with enormous heart and not a trace of sentiment. Given a damp and warm reality by Michael DiPascale's beautifully-judged art, Garth Ennis manages, with hardly any homo sapiens in sight, to tell what is quite possibly the most profoundly human story of his already astonishing career. This is a book for life, not just for Christmas. - ALAN MOORE"

A CITY INSIDE HC GN
(W/A/CA) Tillie Walden
Shifting between the everyday and the surreal, A City Inside recounts one woman's life from childhood home, to the first love that she will never forget, to the creation of the idea of herself that she can grow old with and the home that she can grow old in. Walden's follow up to the lyrical I Love This Part is a poetic exploration of the process of growing older; the journey towards finding out who you are and building a life for yourself. It is a universal story of how we don't just come-of-age once, but many times throughout our lives. (STL090967) (C: 0-1-0)

THE GREAT NORTH WOOD GN
(W/A/CA) Tim Bird
Long ago the whole of Southern England was covered in forest. Over time, this woodland has been gradually cut back, but small patches remain amidst the suburban sprawl of South-East London. The magic that once filled the ancient forest can still be felt even when the trees are long gone. Memories of the Great North Wood are recorded in the place names — Forest Hill, Honour Oak, Norwood. Stories are told of the bandits, outlaws and gypsies that once roamed the forest, and their presence can sometimes be sensed when the hum of the city is quiet. (STL090962) (C: 0-1-0)

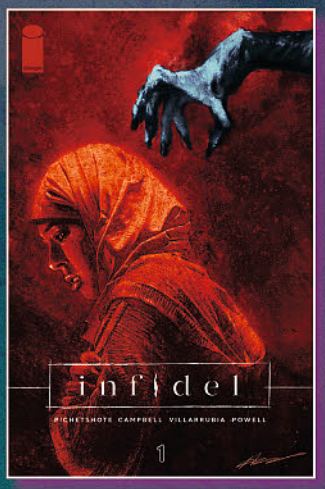
PORNSAK PICHETSHOTE



PREVIEWS:
Introductions, please!

PORNSAK PICHETSHOTE: I'm Pornsak Pichetshote and I'm probably best known at this point as the writer for Image Comics' horror book Infidel (Vol. 1 / JAN188523) as well as being a DC/Vertigo editor on such comics as Swamp Thing, Hellblazer: Pandemonium, The Unwritten, Daytripper, and Sweet Tooth.

P: Which horror titles are you working on right now and how would you describe them to fans looking for an eerie read this Halloween season?

PP: I'm currently putting the finishing touches on the last issue of Infidel. We call it a "haunted house story for the new millennium". It's about an American Muslim woman and her multi-racial neighbors who live in an apartment building haunted by strange entities fueled by xenophobia. It mixes contemporary politics with horror which has earned us a comparison to Get Out. We've also gotten praise from comics horror pros like Jock, Steve Niles, Josh Fialkov, and Mike Carey; pretty much unanimously great reviews from all the major comics sites; and a movie option from Tristar.

P: Who is your favorite horror character, and why? Did they influence or inspire your own approach to character development in Horror?

PP: My favorite horror character is Swamp Thing (Saga of... Vol. 1 / JAN120343), at least when Alan Moore was writing him. Probably less because of the character, though, and more because all horror comic writers owe a debt to the way Moore revisited and re-energized horror tropes. Although probably the biggest influence to my approach on horror comics is manga artist Junji Ito, and my favorite work of his is Uzumaki (3-in-1 Edition / AUG131498). Uzumaki is on my list for scariest horror comic and if you pick it up, you can most definitely see the influence he's had on Infidel.

P: What is something you hope to accomplish with your Horror storytelling?

PP: I'm desperately trying to make readers as uncomfortable as I am when I'm reading those best moments of Ito's Uzumaki or Alan Moore's Swamp Thing. My goal is to get you to really feel invested and relate to my characters, so that when the horrors come, it hits that much closer to home. But also, I don't want you to stop seeing horrors when you look away from the pages of the book. I want the themes of the work to affect you enough that it makes you look at the uncomfortable things in the world too.

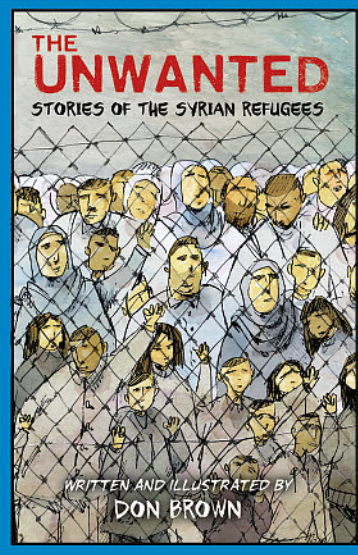
THE UNWANTED: STORIES OF SYRIAN REFUGEES HC

Recommended by Wink Shörtendorfer



A humanitarian crisis began in the summer of 2011 in Syria, one of several countries affected by the "Arab Spring," protests against repressive governments in the Arab world. In some countries, like Egypt and Yemen, authoritarian governments were overthrown. In Syria, the country descended into civil war as Bashar Al-Assad's government began a brutal crackdown against rebels in the north, using chemical weapons in contravention of international law, destroying cities such as Raqqa and Aleppo, and forcing those who could to flee for their lives. Some Syrians fled to refugee camps in "safe" areas in the Syrian desert. Others crossed the border into Turkey or Lebanon to flee the violence. Still others fled into Europe by land or by boat, paying traffickers what money they had to buy passage, and the Mediterranean Sea crossings into Greece and the Baltic countries were especially treacherous. Some, like the three-year-old boy Aylan Kurdi, drowned. Many found themselves taken by authorities in other countries and herded into refugee camps. Of Syria's pre-war population of 22 million, today half are refugees displaced from their homes, six million within Syria, five million outside its borders.

Award-winning writer and illustrator Don Brown explores the Syrian refugee crisis in his graphic novel, The Unwanted, for Houghton Mifflin Harcourt. Brown has previously explored the aftermath of Hurricane Katrina in The Drowned City and the Dust Bowl of the 1930s in The Great American Dust Bowl. Like in those graphic novels, Brown offers a human dimension to the crisis, portraying one month in the life of a refugee family, the deteriorating situation in Syria, and their harrowing escape. Brown traveled to refugee camps as part of his research for The Unwanted, meeting Syrian refugees and hearing their stories, giving the graphic novel authenticity. Proceeds for The Unwanted will go to the International Rescue Committee, a humanitarian organization that works to resettle refugees and help them become self-sufficient. Don Brown's The Unwanted is a powerful and necessary book about the human toll of the Syrian crisis and the struggle of millions to find what we all want – a life free of danger and war, someplace where they can live, work, and play in peace, where they can be happy, where they can thrive, where they can love. The world's leaders may have turned a blind eye to the plight of the Syrians. Don Brown, thankfully, has not.

SEAN LEWIS

PREVIEWS: Introductions, please!

SEAN LEWIS: I am Sean Lewis, the writer and co-creator of Saints: The Book of Blaise (JUN160699), The Few (JUN170653), and Coyotes (JAN180663), all with Image Comics.

P: Which horror titles are you working on right now and how would you describe them to fans looking for an eerie read this Halloween season?

SL: Coyotes is an allegory about a group of women hunted by werewolves along the Mexican border. When they discover the wolves are men from their town, they kick a large revenge plot into gear.

P: Who is your favorite horror character, and why? Did they influence or inspire your own approach to character development in Horror?

SL: I always had a soft spot for Michael Meyers from John Carpenter's Halloween. I remember watching it at home as a kid and freaking out. He hasn't influenced this book but I'm sure down the line he is bound to.

P: What is something you hope to accomplish with your Horror storytelling?

SL: I'm always interested in how you can use horror to talk about everyday fears. People are so angry and divided these days that horror seems to be the only way to discuss politics and terror in a way that people will just engage with without losing their mind immediately.

ANNIE SULLIVAN AND THE TRIALS OF HELEN KELLER GN

(W/A/CA) Joseph Lambert

Helen Keller lost her ability to see and hear before she turned two years old. But in her lifetime, she learned to ride horseback and dance the foxtrot. She graduated from Radcliffe. She became a world famous speaker and author. She befriended Mark Twain, Charlie Chaplin, and Alexander Graham Bell. And above all, she revolutionized public perception and treatment of the blind and the deaf. The catalyst for this remarkable life's journey was Annie Sullivan, a young woman who was herself visually impaired. Hired as a tutor when Helen was six years old, Annie broke down the barriers between Helen and the wider world, becoming a fiercely devoted friend and lifelong companion in the process. In Annie Sullivan and the Trials of Helen Keller, author and illustrator Joseph Lambert examines the powerful bond between teacher and pupil, forged through the intense frustrations and revelations of Helen's early education. The result is an inspiring, emotional, and wholly original take on the story of these two great Americans. (STL091115) (C: 0-1-0)

THOREAU AT WALDEN GN

(W/A/CA) John Porcellino

"I am convinced, both by faith and experience, that to maintain one's self on this earth is not a hardship, but a pastime, if we will live simply and wisely." So said Henry David Thoreau in 1845 when he began his famous experiment of living by Walden Pond. In this graphic masterpiece, John Porcellino uses only the words of Thoreau himself to tell the story of those two years off the beaten track. The pared-down text focuses on Thoreau's most profound ideas, and Porcellino's fresh, simple pictures bring the philosopher's sojourn at Walden to cinematic life. For readers who know Walden intimately, this graphic treatment will provide a vivid new interpretation of Thoreau's story. (STL091113) (C: 0-1-0)

OUR VALUED CUSTOMERS COMPLETE COLLECTION TP

Recommended by Leigh Tyberg

The brave souls who work in comic book retail see and hear some strange, strange things. Ask any owner, any manager, any clerk or part-time helper, and they'll pull out the weirdest thing they've ever heard.

Mine involves being yelled at and told I was going to hell by a little old lady who wanted free movie passes that we no longer had. Tied for that is the guy who talked my ear off for five hours about comics continuity, even going so far as to follow me to my car when I left for the day. There are a couple tales that take the cake, but they belong in our Adult catalog, so I won't share them here.

It's a comfort to know that Tim Chamberlain's Our Valued Customers exists, documenting his own experiences listening to customers' conversations. Everything from little girls begging their parents to hurry up so they can leave, to complaints about Spider-Man's butt not being featured prominently enough in an upcoming movie. And who among us doesn't have an ex we can compare to The Phantom Menace?

Chamberlain's one-panel comic started as an internet series back in 2010 as he eavesdropped from behind the counter; documenting wacky, wonderful, and occasionally worrisome snippets of conversation from the shop he worked at.

Possibly the best part about the soundbites featured is how they capture the human experience through a nerdy lens. The talking heads featured in Our Valued Customers entertain, and provoke thought (and occasionally rage), all while providing a window into the dweeby soul.

And they're damn funny.

A little like The Office if it took place inside your friendly local comic book shop, Our Valued Customers is delightful and insightful.

CULLEN BUNN

PREVIEWS: Introductions, please!

CULLEN BUNN: I'm Cullen Bunn, and I write several creator-owned horror or horror-themed comics — Regression (Vol. 1: Way Down Deep / SEP170659) and Cold Spots (Issue #1 / JUN180044) for Image, Harrow County (Vol. 1 Library Ed. / JUN180372) and Death Follows (JAN160137) for Dark Horse, The Sixth Gun (Vol. 1 DLX Ed. / JUN131225) and The Damned (Vol. 1: Three Days Dead / NOV161703) for Oni Press, and Bone Parish (Issue #1 / MAY181178) and The Empty Man (MAY151111) for BOOM! Studios. I also write X-Men and Deadpool stories aplenty for Marvel.

P: Which horror titles are you working on right now and how would you describe them to fans looking for an eerie read this Halloween season?

CB: Cold Spots is my latest horror book. It's a creepy, gothic, cosmic story of a missing girl and a man's efforts to find her. The problem is, where the girl goes, ghosts grow restless, and these ghosts seem to sap the warmth out of the air around them. Believe me, the story gets very, very cold!

Regression is a series that's in full swing right now, and it is absolutely bonkers! It's a horror story that (I hope) will really mess with your mind. It's the story about a past-life regression gone horribly, horribly wrong. My dad was a hypnotist who did regressions, and I drew on a lot of my experiences there.

Bone Parish is a supernatural crime story set in New Orleans. It follows a family that is trying to make it in the drug trade. The drug they are selling? It's made from the ashes of the dead, and users get to walk a mile in someone else's shoes when they try it.

I just wrapped up Harrow County, but I highly suggest looking into the trade paperbacks or library edition hardcovers! Harrow County is the story of a young woman who lives out in the country, and she's just discovered that she might very well be the reincarnation of an infamous witch!

P: Who is your favorite horror character, and why? Did they influence or inspire your own approach to character development in Horror?

CB: Oh, wow! There are so, so many. In movies, we've got Reggie the ice cream man from Phantasm. I like how badly he's in over his head. I also like Michael Myers from Halloween, because he terrified me when I was a kid. Dallas from Alien is also a favorite doomed character. In fiction, I love Danny Torrance from Stephen King's The Shining and its sequel, Doctor Sleep. In comics, I love so many horror heroes — Man-Thing, Swamp Thing, Scare Tactics, Etrigan, Klarion, Constantine, Werewolf by Night. The list goes on and on!

I certainly pull inspiration from everything I read and watch. I love how so many different characters can interact with these horrors in different ways. In fright... with humor... serious... bumbling... and when done right the dichotomy can make for some exciting and terrifying tale.

P: What is something you hope to accomplish with your Horror storytelling?

CB: My horror work in comics is very deliberate and methodical. I tend to focus on building a mood rather than going for a jump scare or an awful bloodletting. I want readers to be invested in the characters. I want them to be immersed in the story. Then I want to hit them with a terrifying whammy. I want readers to be entertained and afraid when they read a horror book. That's the name of the game, after all!

RENEGADE WESTERNS: MOVIES THAT SHOT DOWN FRONTIER MYTHS SC

(W) Kevin Grant

The Western is America's definitive contribution to cinema, a bullet-spattered blueprint for the nation's image of itself and its place in the world. Renegade Westerns shows the shadowy side of this picture, where heroes behaved like villains, where Indians were not always the savages we'd been led to expect. More than 100 films are dissected and discussed, from the hidden depths of High Noon and The Man Who Shot Liberty Valance to the ferocity of The Wild Bunch. The book ranges over 70 years of movie-making, right up to the biggest westerns of recent times. Complete with a foreword by western expert Edward Buscombe, Renegade Westerns offers a fresh perspective on a genre that continues to attract both large audiences and critical acclaim. MORT CINDER
By Hector German Oesterheld and Alberto Breccia
$29.99 / HC / 224 pgs / BW / 8 x 10

The great Alberto Breccia, in collaboration with the Argentine writer Hector German Oesterheld (The Eternaut,) present Mort Cinder, a horror story with political overtones that follows the wanderings through time of a man who rises from the grave each time he is killed, bearing witness to the darkest sides of humanity. American comics creators such as Frank Miller (300, Sin City) and Mike Mignola (Hellboy) owe Breccia a great debt; these horror-adventure tales are as thrilling, dread-inducing, and accessible as when they were created a half a century ago.

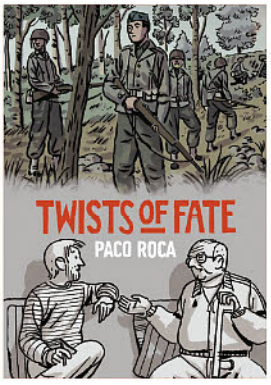
DRAWN TO BERLIN: COMIC WORKSHOPS IN REFUGEE SHELTERS AND OTHER STORIES FROM A NEW EUROPE
By Ali Fitzgerald
$24.99 / HC / 196 pgs / BW / 6.25 x 7.25

Ali Fitzgerald began teaching comics-making to refugees at a Berlin emergency shelter. In her eight years in Germany, Fitzgerald experienced her student's and her own creative highs, along with the deep depression of the disillusioned. In the refugee center, worlds collide and Fizgerald's story entwines the complex themes of political and personal displacement. Her drawings are compassionate and unflinchingly intimate making for a stunning graphic memoir about what you find when you attempt to help lost people.



TWISTS OF FATE
By Paco Roca;
Translated by Erica Mena
$34.99 / HC / 328 pgs / FC / 7 x 9.75

Eisner-award winner Paco Roca (Wrinkles) reconstructs World War II through the memories of Miguel Ruiz, a member of "La Nueve," a company of men that went from fighting against the Franco regime in the Spanish Civil War to battles across Europe and Africa, spurred on by their patriotism and hate for brutal dictatorships. Ruiz's stories are filled with horror and humor but Twists of Fate is much more than a forgotten hero's personal story. It's a timely look into what we remember and why we forget, a reminder that everyone has a tale to tell, and an ode to a generation that stood up to, and beat back, violent fascism.

CASTLE IN THE STARS VOLUME 2: THE MOON KING HC
(W/A/CA) Alex Alice
The second volume in a lavishly illustrated adventure series set in a world where space exploration began during the Victorian era. Seraphin and his crew, which includes the King of Bavaria, have barely escaped the treacherous chamberlain with their lives. They are now stowaways on the magnificent aethership, but their respite is short-lived. To save the king's throne and prove his sanity, they must push the aethership even farther-out of the sky — and into the stars! Alex Alice (Siegfried) delivers a fantastical adventure set in a world where man journeyed into space in 1869, not 1969, and he marries this compelling high-concept premise with intricate, breathtaking art. Now that Charles has helped Margo Maloo close a case, he thinks he's an expert on things that go bump in the night. So as long as he doesn't get in the way, she lets him tag along on her adventures. As Margo's assistant, Charles meets a variety of monsters, from imps to vampires. And lately they all say the same thing: living secretly in Echo City is getting harder. Humans and their smartphones are encroaching on monster territory, eager to photograph paranormal activity and share it with the world. Some monsters are tired of hiding and ready to fight. Charles just moved to Echo City, and some of his new neighbors give him the creeps. They sneak into his room, steal his toys, and occasionally, they try to eat him. The place is teeming with monsters! Lucky for Charles, Echo City has Margo Maloo, monster mediator. No matter who's causing trouble, Margo knows exactly what to do-the neighborhood kids say monsters are afraid of her. It's a good thing, because Echo City's trolls, ogres, and ghosts all have one thing in common: they don't like Charles very much. (W/A/CA) Faith Erin Hicks
Every nation that invades the City gives it a new name. But before long, new invaders arrive and the City changes hands (and names) once again. The natives don't let themselves get caught up in the unending wars. To them, their home is the Nameless City, and those who try to name it are forever outsiders. Kaidu is one such outsider. He's a Dao born and bred—a member of the latest occupying nation. Rat is a native of the Nameless City. At first, she hates Kai for everything he stands for, but his love of his new home may be the one thing that can bring these two unlikely friends together. Comic Book Marketplace

In the Market With Bob Overstreet

The past few months have been very exciting for the comic book business! Each year as we're preparing for the new edition of The Overstreet Comic Book Price Guide to arrive, we like to look back and take stock of the notable transactions we've covered. There were some great stories in 2017 and even just the past few days as I write this have brought us some incredible news.

Recent months have seen a CGC-certified 4.0 copy of Action Comics #1 sell for $573,600 at Heritage, a CGC 5.5 copy of Batman #1 realize $227,050, also at Heritage, and a CBCS-certified 8.5 copy of Fantastic Four #1 bring in $121,259 at ComicLink.

We saw the phenomenal media coverage of Steve Geppi's multi-million dollar donation of comic books, original comic art, and other pop culture items to the Library of Congress, and we've also witnessed successful retailer and Overstreet Advisor Jesse James Criscione of Jesse James Comics shift his retail business heavily toward back issues.

These were all very compelling stories, and they represent the excitement going on in the back issue market today. We've seen several auction houses report all-time record events for comic books, and we've also noted a thriving market for mid-grade comics join the consistent demand for rare, high-grade vintage offerings.

One of the great auctions last year came when ComicConnect offered the Jon Berk Collection. Comprised of copious selections of Golden Age and Silver Age comics that Jon, a longtime Overstreet Advisor, had held for quite a while, it had quite an effect on the marketplace as it totaled over $7 million.

Just a sampling of the results included Action Comics #7 CGC 5.5 ($188,000), Fantastic Comics #3 CGC 9.4 Mile High pedigree ($243,000), Mystery Men Comics #1 CGC 9.0 Mile High pedigree ($41,000), and Wonder Comics #1 CGC 9.4 ($68,000).

There's also plenty of excitement for more recent comics as well, and we're going to take a look at many different market niches in this space over the next few months. Until then, see you next month!

OTHER PEOPLE GN

(W/A/CA) Joff Winterhart

Evocatively wrought and gorgeously illustrated, Other People collects Days of the Bagnold Summer and Driving Short Distances, first published in the UK to wide acclaim. In Bagnold Summer, a teenager spends a long summer with his mother, much to his disappointment. Capturing the dynamics of family and growing up, Winterhart captures the ennui, pathos, and affection of the mother-son relationship. In Driving Short Distances, Sam needs a job and purpose, so begins a apprenticeship of sorts in the passenger side of Keith's car. As Sam learns something about the self-styled big-man Keith, and the humility of everyday living, Winterhat's pen turns ordinary life into a tableau poignant and comedic. (STL090894) (C: 0-1-0)

O/A WIRE MOTHERS: HARRY HARLOW AND THE SCIENCE OF LOVE GN

(W) Jim Ottaviani
(A/CA) Dylan Meconis

"Never hug and kiss them, never let them sit on your lap. The end result is a happy child, free as air, because he has mastered the stupidly simple demands society makes upon him." Psychologists know best, and in the 1950s they warned parents about the dangers of too much love. Besides, what was "love" anyway? Just another name for children seeking food and adults seeking sex. It took Harry Harlow, a deeply unhappy man who knew in his gut the truth about what love — and its absence — meant, to prove otherwise. His experiments, and their results, shocked the world. P. CRAIG RUSSELL'S THE JUNGLE BOOK & OTHER STORIES FINE ART EDITION

Recommended by Steve Leaf

From the beginning the potential was there to be an extraordinary artist. P. Craig Russell stated with a B-level hero at best and went beyond the Kirby and Buscema house styles of the time to bring interesting layout and design to the comic book pages. He went from Marvel Feature to Killraven and everything from inking Mike Mignola on Phantom Stranger to completely illustrating an original Doctor Strange graphic novel, and soon he was ready for the creator owned market.

Now the first in a series of books scanned from the artist's originals is available. In the P Craig Russell: The Jungle Book & Other Stories Fine Art Edition, each page of this hardcover book is scanned to show everything from blue pencils to notes and corrections in their full 12 x17 glory. The stories run the gamut from his Jungle Book stories – "The King's Ankus," "Red Dog," and "The Spring Running" – while the "other stories" in this book are three of P. Craig Russell's most acclaimed early works: "Siegfried and the Dragon," "La Sonnambula," and "The City of Sleep" and "Breakdown on the Starship Remembrance." P. Craig Russell's art nouveau-influenced art demonstrates the need for these original art edition-based books. While the final printed book is a satisfactory way to read a comic or graphic novel, an artist edition such as this truly allow you to appreciate the time and effort the creator put into their work.

ERIC ESQUIVEL

PREVIEWS: Introductions, please!

ERIC ESQUIVEL: I'm Eric Esquivel, and I work at Starburns Industries (or "Estarburns", for our Spanish speaking friends), a Willy-Wonky-style magic factory in Burbank, California that is responsible for all your favorite stuff — like Rick and Morty, Community, and Gregory Graves (Vol. 1 / MAY181985)!

P: Which horror properties are you working on right now?

EE: Fantasmagoría (See Page 409!) is a quarterly horror anthology that is similar to stuff like Black Mirror, Tales from the Crypt, and The Twilight Zone — but it's unique in that it deals exclusively with mythology that is native to Mexico, and the American Southwest.

Basically, they're dramatic retellings of stories that our creepy abuelitas used to traumatize us with when we were niños!

P: Who is your favorite horror character, and why?

EE: Show me a Chicano kid who isn't scared sless of "El Cucuy", and I will show you a liar! He's basically the south-of-the-border Boogeyman — only there aren't any Tim Burton movies or Halloween costumes featuring him — so when you're a kid, he seems like something that could actually exist!

P: What is your horror white whale? What horror character or crossover would you love to create a comic series about?

EE: It's funny you used the term "white whale", because Horror as a genre is a pretty exclusively Caucasian affair... with the notable exception of Blackula!

And I don't want to debate whether that's racist, or whatever — but it's for sure BORING. Pop culture uses the same three Eastern European myths over, and over, and over again: Vampires, Werewolves, and Ghosts.

I'm hip. I worked at Hot Topic for five years… Vampires are rad. But you know what's also rad? Los Duendes! El Chupacabra! La Santa Muerte! There's a whole host of creepy weirdos out there, waiting to scare the living crap out of you. And it's an honor and a privilege for us to introduce them to you!

UPGRADE SOUL

The Ultimate You...
Unique. Undiscovered. Unlimited.

For their 45th anniversary, Hank and Molly Nonnar decide to undergo an experimental rejuvenation procedure, but their hopes for youth are dashed when the couple is faced with the results: severely disfigured yet intellectually and physically superior duplicates of themselves. Can the original Hank and Molly coexist in the same world as their clones? In Upgrade Soul, McDuffie Award–winning creator Ezra Claytan Daniels asks probing questions about what shapes our identity—Is it the capability of our minds or the physicality of our bodies? Is a newer, better version of yourself still you?

UPGRADE SOUL

Dear Reader,

I barely knew who I was when I first wrote out the title, Upgrade Soul, in a notebook. I was twenty-one, and had the idea to write a metaphorical horror story about my deepest fear, which had become my reality: I'd moved away from my hometown in Iowa, where I didn't know of any artists my age better than me, to attend a fine art college in Portland, Oregon, where I immediately discovered I didn't even know the meaning of "better."

That paranoid, post-pubescent existential terror never really went away, but it took over fifteen years of struggling and failing to find a career in comics to fully understand exactly how the idea of "better" can be so oppressive. The horror of "better" lies in its subjectivity: Is young better than old? Is tall better than short? Is abled better than disabled? Is white better than black? Why? According to whom?

The horror of "better" is truly felt by one who feels deemed arbitrarily "worse." Upgrade Soul is, in a way, a record of my attempt to explore that idea. I may not have come up with all the answers I sought, but in my pursuit of them, I've certainly grown into a better person.

CURTAIN CALL

Even Robin Hood made mistakes...

Vincent is spiraling down the drain, circling himself with no clue of what direction his life should take. He has already abandoned the woman he loved and their newborn child he never met, frightened of the responsibility of fatherhood. That's too much like growing up. But now, with nothing in his life but a barfly drinking buddy named Gaby Rocket, he's ready to finally fix himself and make things right. And that all starts with a bank truck heist . . .

A character-driven crime thriller in the proud tradition of Martin Scorsese and the Coen Brothers, where the caper itself is just the framework for an engaging and engrossing set of character studies, written by award-winning author Wilfrid Lupano and illustrated by DreamWorks animator Rodolphe Guenoden.

FRATERNITY

Fear both beast and freedom...

Fraternity is a haunting horror story written by Juan Díaz Canales, the co-creator of the popular Blacksad series, and illustrated by the talented José-Luis Munuera. During the American Civil War, the inhabitants of New Fraternity, Indiana, find themselves far from the front lines of the conflict embroiling the United States but still constantly under threat from it; food is scarce, deserters come to seek asylum, and a mysterious feral beast that walks on two legs prowls the forest around the town. The beast seems to have some connection to Emile, a feral child found a few years earlier who had been taken in by the townsfolk during simpler times. As their fear and paranoia grows, the townsfolk start to hunt the beast and turn on each other, with tragic results that threaten to undo all that they have been working toward.

JASON
The Argonaut

Jason was born in Thessaly, in the port of Iolcos. From the first day of his life, the ocean sang him to sleep, and he grew used to the rolling waves and the cries of seagulls. But because his uncle, Pelias, had stolen the throne from his father, the legitimate king, his mom thought it prudent to distance themselves. She feared for her son's life since he was the true heir to the kingdom. She trusted him to Chiron, a centaur, who lived in the forest on Mount Pelion.

Chiron wasn't like the other centaurs. Though he too was half-man, half-horse, they were loud and easily angered, whereas he was wise and learned. He taught Jason to respect nature, heal man and animal alike, and resist fatigue—a useful skill for his future adventure across the seas.

When, near the end of the ten long years, the Trojans found an enormous wooden horse that the Greeks left them as an offering, to honor their gods and celebrate the end of the war, Helen guessed that Greek warriors were hiding inside. Though it spelled the end of Troy, she didn't a say word to anyone.

The two men she loved the most among the Trojans, Hector and Paris, were already dead. What did it matter to her if the city was destroyed? If Menelaus got his revenge and killed her? Destiny, which reigns over gods and men alike, would decide!

But when Menelaus found her in the rubble of the burning city, her clothes torn, face blackened by soot and covered in tears—but still beautiful—his heart softened.

He brought her back with him to Sparta, where she found her daughter and lived in peace for many more years.

An exciting and hilarious new middle grade story for anyone who likes (or doesn't like) vampires! Buffy Summers is just like any other student... except for the part where she's also a secret vampire slayer. In every generation, one girl is granted great strength to stand against the forces of darkness. Of course, power doesn't matter when it comes to eating lunch alone, getting picked on by the popular kids, or having way too much homework. Luckily, Buffy finds her way with a can-do attitude, a weird Watcher, and new besties, Sarafina and Alvaro, who might just have powers of their own. But will any of it be enough to turn the tide when an army of villainous vampires invade town? Can Buffy save herself, let alone the world? (STL091121) (C: 0-1-0)

HOME AFTER DARK GN

(W/A/CA) David Small

David Small's long-awaited graphic novel is a savage portrayal of male adolescence gone awry like no other work of recent fiction or film. Thirteen-year-old Russell Pruitt, abandoned by his mother, follows his father to sun-splashed California in search of a dream. Suddenly forced to fend for himself, Russell struggles to survive in Marshfield, a dilapidated town haunted by a sadistic animal killer and a ring of malicious boys who bully Russell for being "queer." Rescued from his booze-swilling father by Wen and Jian Mah, a Chinese immigrant couple who long for a child, Russell betrays their generosity by running away with their restaurant's proceeds. Home After Dark becomes a new form of literature in this shocking graphic interpretation of cinema verité. The New York Times-bestseller from the author of Watchmen and V for Vendetta finally appears in a one-volume paperback. In decaying Northampton, eternity loiters between housing projects. Among saints, kings, prostitutes, and derelicts, a timeline unravels: second-century fiends wait in urine-scented stairwells, delinquent specters undermine a century with tunnels, and in upstairs parlors, laborers with golden blood reduce fate to a snooker tournament. Through the labyrinthine streets and pages of Jerusalem tread ghosts singing hymns of wealth and poverty. They celebrate the English language, challenge mortality post-Einstein, and insist upon their slum as Blake's eternal holy city. COWBOYS, CREATURES AND CLASSICS: THE STORY OF REPUBLIC PICTURES

(W) Chris Enss, Howard Kazanjian

Republic Pictures was the little studio in the San Fernando Valley where movies were made family style. A core of technicians, directors, and actors worked hard at their craft as Republic released a staggering total of more than a thousand films through the late 1950s. Republic brought action, adventure, and escape to neighborhood movies houses across America. And they brought it with style. Republic Pictures became a studio where major directors could bring their personal vision to the screen. Sometimes these were projects no other studio would touch such as The Quiet Man (which brought director John Ford an Oscar) and Macbeth. Cowboys, Creatures and Classics: The Story of Republic Pictures is the honest account of an extraordinary production house, one whose ability to turn out films quickly boded well for its transition into television production. All 4 first full color volumes in one specially priced banded set of this popular spoof of horror! Michael Paris has inherited a plot in the remote town of Raven Hollow. As he arrives, he gets to find out what a doozie that is. He's basically inherited a cemetery that the villagers want razed! Why? It's haunted with apparently frightening creatures putting a curse on the whole town! But when Paris actually gets to meet some of the denizens of his inherited headache, it turns out they ain't all that bad (the vamp, in fact, is quite cute) and maybe the evil is not where it may seem. DR. STONE VOLUME 1 GN

Recommended by Luke Martin

Main character and young scientific genius, Senkuu, has had one goal his entire childhood: to personally make it to space. And if you think that all of humanity turning to stone (including him and his friends) and resetting civilization back to the Stone Age is going to stop him, you're horribly mistaken.

Dr. Stone is a new in the States manga revolving around best friends Senkuu, Taiju, and Yuzuriha (but mostly Senkuu), newly unpetrified and trying to rebuild civilization from scratch while all of humanity remain sentient statues. The post-apocalypse genre has become incredibly saturated in media over the last few years, and manga is no exception. Where Dr. Stone distinguishes itself, however, is in its unique world-ending event and its intense love of technology and scientific progress. There's a strong air of hopefulness in Dr. Stone. The core cast is regularly tackling monumental tasks, but Inagaki always makes every step feel attainable.

Breaking down major scientific achievements into understandable components is the primary strength of the series. The story often treats recreating modern things we take for granted as multi-chapter long events, wherein Senkuu describes the whole process as materials are collected, shaped, and rendered. This could run the risk of being very boring, but with the detailed accuracy of both Boichi's artwork and Inagaki's writing, you often end up with the same wide eyed satisfaction as the core cast. It's very hard to accurately describe what is appealing about this manga, my suggestion is to just check it out if you're a fan of grounded science-fiction or crafting/survival games!

TALES OF THE SMITHS: A GRAPHIC BIOGRAPHY

(W/A/CA) Con Chrissolis

Tales of The Smiths is a comic book retelling of the band members' teenage years, before the group was famous, and includes fascinating digressions about their influences (the New York Dolls, Nico, Sex Pistols, NY punk, Patti Smith, etc.) and the times in which they grew up. The story reaches its climax with the meeting of Morrissey and Marr, the formation of the band in 1982, and their first gig as The Smiths. With an introduction by Simon Wolstencroft, the former drummer of The Fall and Patrol, and following Omnibus bestsellers God-Speed: The Kurt Cobain Graphic and *Gabba Hey! RELEASE DATE: 11/7/18, TEEN, 16+

Erika and Matthew are ready to talk about sex!

Have you ever had a question about sex, but didn't know who to ask? Well, Erika and Matthew have spent years learning, talking, and creating informative comics about all aspects of sex. Using comics, jokes, and frank communication, they're here to demystify the world of sex and answer your questions—including ones you might not even know you had!

In this first book of the Drawn to Sex series, they explore the practical side of sex, from the basics of what defines sex, to barriers and testing, masturbation, and the ins-and-outs of having sex with other people.

Pick up this fun book if you're looking to learn something new, understand sexuality better, or know someone (maybe you!) who might benefit from some judgment-free education. Erika and Matthew are here to help you out!

"An invaluable resource for teens growing up in areas where accurate sex education is not on the curriculum."
—NPR

"A great and hilarious resource—some of the best sex ed out there!"
DAN SAVAGE (SAVAGE LOVE, IT GETS BETTER PROJECT)

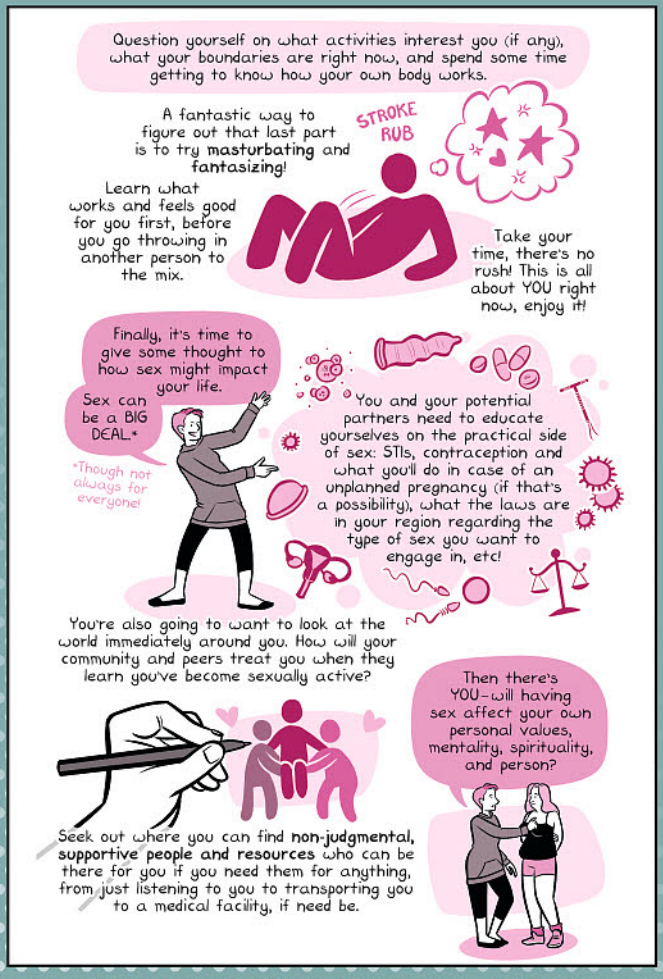
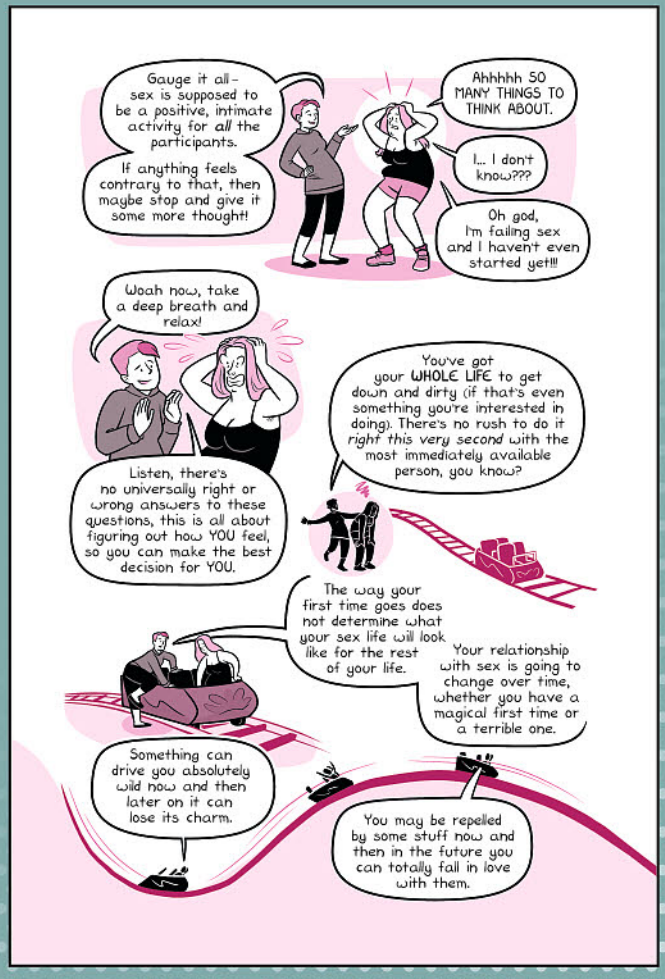
Hey Erika... How... how did you know when you were ready to have sex?
Ah hoo-boy, figuring out if you're ready to have sex is a DOOZY of a question without a real black and white answer.
But the skinny version is: you're ready to have sex when YOU (and only you) FEEL really ready to do it.
That answer sucks.
I know.
Honestly, "Am I ready for sex?" is too broad of a question to tackle.
But, we can help you figure things out by breaking it down a bit into smaller, easier, personal questions.
Obviously, this isn't a comprehensive list of everything to keep in mind when becoming sexually active and everybody's process is going to be different.
If you've got a trusted person in your life who has some experience with this stuff, hit them up! Or find a supportive community online.
You don't gotta figure this stuff out all alone.
First up, ask yourself "WHY do I want want to have sex?"

If it's something you're curious about and your potential partner's equally excited to explore with you, then rad!
Having sex is something that you and your partners should genuinely WANT to participate in with each other and it should be a positive experience for everyone involved.
Woo!
Yeah!
But if it's something you're considering just to appease someone else or it feels like you "HAVE TO DO IT" because you're a certain age, or your friends are doing it, or your relationship feels like sex is "required"...
Well, those aren't good reasons, honestly.
Not being interested in or wanting to have sex is totally valid. You're not broken or wrong if you don't want to have sex right now or not ever!
Lots of people have loving, fulfilling relationships that don't involve swapping fluids; bumping uglies is not a prerequisite to care & companionship.
Next up, ask yourself "What am I comfortable trying?"
Spend some time really thinking about what counts as sex to you, what sex means to you, where does it fall in line with your values and what feelings do you associate with it?
A big part of understanding your feelings towards sex is getting to know your sexual self.



Question yourself on what activities interest you (if any), what your boundaries are right now, and spend some time getting to know how your own body works.
A fantastic way to figure out that last part is to try masturbating and fantasizing!
STROKE
RUB
Learn what works and feels good for you first, before you go throwing in another person to the mix.
Take your time, there's no rush! This is all about YOU right now, enjoy it!
Finally, it's time to give some thought to how sex might impact your life.
Sex can be a BIG DEAL.*
*Though not always for everyone!
You and your potential partners need to educate yourselves on the practical side of sex: STIs, contraception and what you'll do in case of an unplanned pregnancy (if that's a possibility), what the laws are in your region regarding the type of sex you want to engage in, etc!
You're also going to want to look at the world immediately around you. How will your community and peers treat you when they learn you've become sexually active?
Then there's YOU—will having sex affect your own personal values, mentality, spirituality, and person?
Seek out where you can find non-judgmental, supportive people and resources who can be there for you if you need them for anything, from just listening to you to transporting you to a medical facility, if need be.



Gauge it all—sex is supposed to be a positive, intimate activity for all the participants.
If anything feels contrary to that, then maybe stop and give it some more thought!
Ahhhhh SO MANY THINGS TO THINK ABOUT.
I... I don't know???
Oh god, I'm failing sex and I haven't even started yet!!!
Woah now, take a deep breath and relax!
Listen, there's no universally right or wrong answers to these questions, this is all about figuring out how YOU feel, so you can make the best decision for YOU.
You've got your WHOLE LIFE to get down and dirty (if that's even something you're interested in doing). There's no rush to do it right this very second with the most immediately available person, you know?
The way your first time goes does not determine what your sex life will look like for the rest of your life.
Your relationship with sex is going to change over time, whether you have a magical first time or a terrible one.
Something can drive you absolutely wild now and then later on it can lose its charm.
You may be repelled by some stuff now and then in the future you can totally fall in love with them.

(W/A/CA) Alex Ross

Thirteen years after his Eisner Award-winning, nationally best-selling Mythology, here is Alex Ross' long-awaited Marvel Comics counterpart, a retrospective celebration of the other half of the comics galaxy that is currently ruling the world: Spider-Man, Iron Man, Captain America, Black Panther, the Avengers, the X-Men, Doctor Strange, the Guardians of the Galaxy, and the Fantastic Four. Marvelocity includes more than 50 never-been-published sketches, paintings, photographs and working models, and other preparatory art, and a 14-panel portfolio gallery of Marvel's most beloved characters. And Ross has written a new 10-page story pitting Spider-Man against the Sinister Six, the webslinger's most popular villains, that ends with a stunning twist. With an introduction by J. J. Abrams! PASSING FOR HUMAN: A GRAPHIC MEMOIR HC
(W/A/CA) Liana Finck
A visually arresting graphic memoir about a young artist struggling against what's expected of her as a woman, and learning to accept her true self, from an acclaimed New Yorker cartoonist. In this achingly beautiful graphic memoir, Liana Finck goes in search of that thing she has lost — her shadow, she calls it, but we can also think of it as the "otherness" or "strangeness" that has defined her since birth, that part of her that has always felt as though she is living in exile from the world. In Passing for Human, Finck is on a quest for self-understanding and self-acceptance—and along the way, she seeks to answer some eternal questions: What makes us whole? What parts of ourselves do we hide or ignore or chase away — because they're embarrassing, or inconvenient, or just plain weird — and at what cost? I FEEL MACHINE GN

(W) Krent Able, Julian Hanshaw
(A) Box Brown & Various

Since the turn of the century, technology has transformed the way we communicate and consume, how we work and fall in love and navigate the world. We are increasingly reliant on it — but few of us know anything about the science that is driving this technological change. Kurt Vonnegut famously said that to leave technology out of fiction is to misrepresent life. Here, six acclaimed graphic novelists present reports from the digital frontier. Exploring everything from artificial intelligence to virtual reality, I Feel Machine is by turns cautionary and celebratory, touching and terrifying. It challenges and confronts the digital world using the most technologically efficient machine ever invented: the book. (STL090578) (C: 0-1-0)

NICK CAVE & THE BAD SEEDS: AN ART BOOK HC

In his graphic biography Nick Cave: Mercy on Me, Reinhard Kleist painted an expressive and enthralling portrait of the musician, novelist, poet, and actor. It is, according to Nick Cave himself, "a complex, chilling and completely bizarre journey into Cave World." Nick Cave & The Bad Seeds: An Art Book collects Kleist's moody and expressive portraits of the musician and his band, spanning 30 years of writing, recording, and live performance. Kleist also returns readers to Cave's imaginative world with comic book reimaginings of "Deanna," "The Good Son," and "Stagger Lee." Filled with visual delights, this record-size art book is a kaleidoscopic portrait of Nick Cave's wide-ranging career as a storyteller, musician, and cultural icon. (STL090579) (C: 0-1-0)

ONE TWO THREE FOUR RAMONES GN

(W) Bruno Cadene, Xavier Betaucourt
(A) Eric Cartier

In the mid-1970s The Ramones reinvigorated a lifeless rock 'n' roll scene. Drugs, prostitution, teenage rebellion: the punk quartet wrote about what they knew—and the result was an explosive, radical new sound. Told through the eyes of Dee Dee Ramone, this graphic novel traces the life of the band's creative soul, spanning his troubled years at a military school in Germany, his early experiences with opiates, his family's relocation to New York, and his first encounters with fellow misfits Joey, Johnny, and Tommy. This fascinating graphic portrait of the band's development takes readers from The Ramone's dismal first show to Dee Dee's death in 2002, shortly after the band was inducted into the Rock & Roll Hall of Fame. THE MAGIC MIRROR OF M.C. ESCHER HC

(A/CA) M. c. Escher
Long before the first computer-generated 3-D images, M. C. Escher was a master of the third dimension. His impossible geometry and illusions, bordering between the scientific and psychological, are an homage to the possibilities of the human mind. This collection presents the artist's key graphic works and illustrations in stunning full-page reproductions, complete with detailed explanations of each mathematical problem. (STL090531) (C: 0-1-0)

R. CRUMB SKETCHBOOK VOLUME 4: 1982-1989 HC

(A/CA) Robert Crumb
This book spans the years 1982 to 1989, a period when the artist was comfortably ensconced in rural California, raising his young daughter Sophie, who appears throughout this volume. But Crumb was still Crumb, declaring in one drawing, above a lovingly rendered tree, "As I get older I get more twisted, convoluted, depraved, cynical, embittered, self-centered, jaded, debauched, ruthless, greedy, conceited, set-in-my-ways, long-winded, absent-minded, prejudiced, closed-minded, misanthropic, nervous..." To prove this self-flagellating analysis he fills the pages with his signature perversions (in country settings), scathing social commentary, cruel self-portraits, experimental cubism... and some lovely sylvan landscape. His mastery of the Rapidograph pen is at its zenith here in his 40s. (STL090530) (C: 0-1-0) NOTE: Not available in the U.K. (May Purchase from U.K. Vendor)

R. CRUMB SKETCHBOOK VOLUME 1: JUN. 1964-MAR. 1966 HC (NEW PRINTING)

From the very beginning, even before the sexual revolution made Robert Crumb the world's most celebrated underground cartoonist, he felt compelled to commit his sexual fantasies to paper. Once upon a time, he'd destroy them, fearful of others discovering his quirky tastes. Then he found that baring his soul provided a sort of therapy, leading him to immortalize every desire in pen and ink. This compact new edition, sourced from the same Robert Crumb Sketchbooks 1964–1982, offers the same high-quality obsession at a bargain price. Through satire, psychedelia, and outlandish sexually obsessed characters, 448 pages bring the best of Crumb's prolific mid-1960's period of June 1964 to September 1968. R. CRUMB SKETCHBOOK VOLUME 2: SEPT. 1968-JAN. 1975 HC (NEW PRINTING)

Called the Bruegel of underground art, Robert Crumb is an American icon of comic introspection, cultural satire, and sexual obsession. This new collection presents an affordable 444-page trip through the hippie years, 1968-1975, personally sourced by the artist from his original sketchbooks. This volume combines the two middle volumes from the second boxed set, produced directly from the original artworks. This book contains hundreds of sketches from the master of underground comic art, including cover roughs for Zap, Motor City, and Despair comics, the introduction of Aline, and much more, all wrapped up in front and back illustrations newly hand-colored by Crumb himself. WALT DISNEY'S DISNEYLAND HC

(W) Chris Nichols
Walt Disney dreamed for decades about opening the ultimate entertainment venue, but it wasn't until the early 1950s that his handpicked team began to bring his vision to life. Together, artists, architects, and engineers transformed a dusty tract of orange groves into one of the world's most beloved destinations, one that every child in America begs to visit. The original Disneyland in Anaheim, California, remains one of America's most popular attractions, drawing over 16 million visitors each year. This bountiful visual history draws on Disney's vast archives, private collections, and the golden age of photojournalism to provide unique access to the concept, development, launch, and enjoyment of this sun-drenched oasis of fun and fantasy. But when a new prophet comes calling, Billy is summoned to save the galaxy he's at least partially responsible for destroying. Too bad he couldn't care less. Michael Moreci (Roche Limit, Wonder Woman, Black Star Renegades) and Hayden Sherman (The Few, Cold War, John Carter The End) have thrown Philip K. Dick in a blender with Preacher. MY HERO ACADEMIA: THE CARD GAME

Recommended by Luke Martin

Much to my joy, My Hero Academia has bloomed into a smash hit in the mainstream. That alone should be enough to sell someone familiar with it on Shinobi7's new competitive card game. If it's not, I suppose I have a few good reasons why people should be interested. My Hero Academia: The Card Game focuses on an oft mentioned, but rarely explored aspect of the series lore: Hero Agencies. In the game, you play as an agency, attempting to build its renown in the world by completing missions with teams of heroes that you build yourself from the 60 student cards in the respective deck. The primary appeal of the game for me, is building teams based around synergies with the various student's quirks. It's reminiscent of what made the cavalry battle in the main series such an enjoyable thing to watch, and trouncing your friend's teams to outclass their agency is equally as satisfying. All in all, I think this is the most interesting licensed game Shinobi7 has made to date, with mechanics that are well suited to the series and a pace of play that should make for a plus ultra time with a small group of friends!

KAFKAESQUE: FOURTEEN STORIES GN
(W/A/CA) Peter Kuper
Long fascinated with the work of Franz Kafka, Peter Kuper began illustrating his stories in 1988. Initially drawn to the master's dark humor, Kuper adapted the stories over the years to plumb their deeper truths. Kuper's style deliberately evokes Lynd Ward and Frans Masereel, contemporaries of Kafka whose wordless novels captured much of the same claustrophobia and mania as Kafka's tales. Longtime lovers of Kafka will appreciate Kuper's innovative interpretations, including "A Hunger Artist," "In The Penal Colony," and "The Burrow." Kafkaesque stands somewhere between adaptation and wholly original creation, going beyond a simple illustration of Kafka's words to become a stunning work of art. MIYAZAKIWORLD: A LIFE IN ART HC
(W) Susan Napier
(A) Hayao Miyazaki
A thirtieth-century toxic jungle, a bathhouse for tired gods, a red-haired fish girl, and a furry woodland spirit—what do these have in common? They all spring from the mind of Hayao Miyazaki, one of the greatest living animators, known worldwide for films such as My Neighbor Totoro, Princess Mononoke, Spirited Away, Howl's Moving Castle, and The Wind Rises. Japanese culture and animation scholar Susan Napier explores the life and art of this extraordinary Japanese filmmaker to provide a definitive account of his oeuvre. Napier insightfully illuminates the multiple themes crisscrossing his work, from empowered women to environmental nightmares to utopian dreams, creating an unforgettable portrait of a man whose art challenged Hollywood dominance and ushered in a new chapter of global popular culture. MORE ABOUT MANGA!

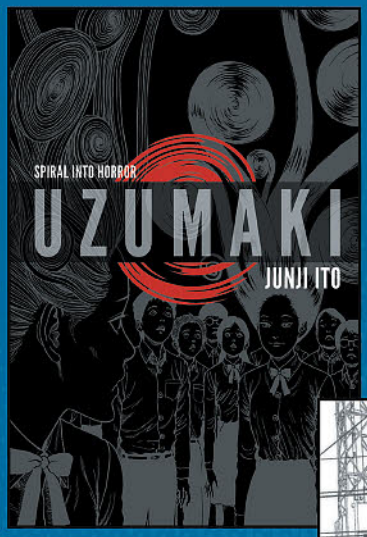
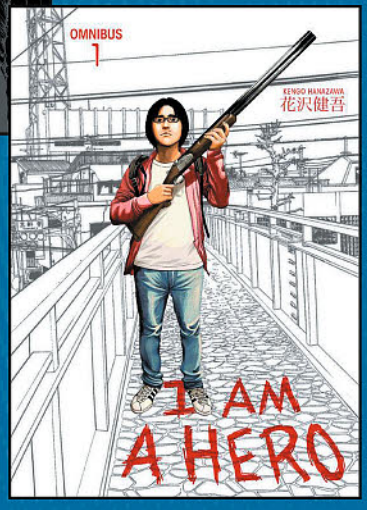
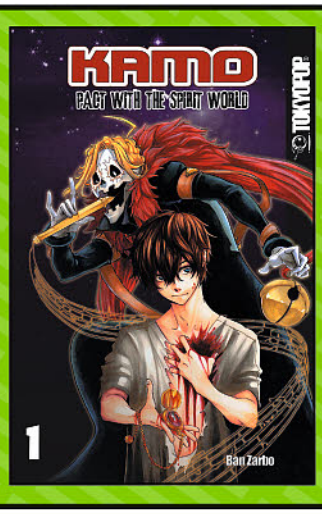
Stories about vengeful spirits more powerful in death than they were in life were commonplace in Edo Japan, and these scary stories — known as "kaidan" — typically came with a moral or lesson for the listener to take to heart, often recorded in early manga-style images for later generations to enjoy.





Having evolved from their more ancient origins, modern Japanese horror tales are called just that; horaa or "horror". Seen throughout Japanese movies, video games and novels, this uniquely Japanese take on what goes bump in the night can be found in dozens of manga titles as well.



Body horror is a theme that carries on from ancient folktales, with limbs just a bit too long and faces that twist in ways that haunt the mind.

Yōkai (supernatural monsters and strange creatures both malevolent and harmless) have become well-known thanks to franchises like Yo-kai Watch, and with the popularity of J-Horror movies like The Ring and The Grudge, more and more fans in the west are welcoming these creepy tales from Japan!

RADIANT

SPOTLIGHT ON

Seth is an aspiring wizard living in a pastoral village under the watchful eye of his mentor. Like all wizards, he is an "infected": one of the few living creatures that has survived contact with a Nemesis, creatures fallen from the sky that contaminate all they touch. His apparent immunity led him to choose a path that seemed to be perfect–to become someone who hunts and fights the Nemesis. But Seth longs for a quest that goes beyond the simple hunt for monsters. He wants to find their home, Radiant. Along with other wizards, he travels the world in search of Radiant, under the sinister eye of the Inquisition...

TOY TALK: PAT WANG

Toys, Statues and other collectibles don't just magically appear on store shelves. A lot of work goes into the concept, design, sculpting and final production of these items, and many of the people who work behind-the-scenes with companies like Diamond Select, DC Collectibles and Gentle Giant, among others, remain mostly unknown to their appreciative audience: the final consumer.

With Toy Talk, we hope to introduce you to the artisans behind some of your favorite collectibles, and to let them enjoy their well-deserved moment in the spotlight!

This month, we welcome Icon Heroes Vice President of Sales & Markerting, PAT WANG...

TOY TALK: What is your position at Icon Heroes, and what do you do?

PAT WANG: I assist with product development, sales and marketing. Most of my time is spent coordinating projects with our art director, sculptors, painters, etc. Then, I work on getting the products presented to buyers.

TT: How did you get into the Toy industry?

PW: I used to have a retail company where we carried products from almost every toy company. Being in a retail environment gave me a good idea of what sells.

TT: Which of your products in the July PREVIEWS are you most excited about?

PW: I'm very excited about the Harry Potter line! As a fan of the films, it's been great re-watching them to get ideas of what to make next.

TT: What was the design process for the Severus Snape and Lord Voldemort statues?

PW: We are all Harry Potter fans here, so it was pretty easy to come up with a consensus list of who we felt were the most popular characters, and Snape and Voldemort were two characters that were consistently on that list.

TT: What are some of your personal favorites from the Icon Heroes line?

PW: Some of my favorites are the first statues from a line: Our first Arrow, The Flash and Supergirl statues from the DC/CW shows; the Harry Potter "Quidditch" figure; the Hook statue from ABC's Once Upon a Time — the actor Colin O'Donoghue signed a bunch of them, which was nice! We also have some exciting things coming soon, which I can't talk about yet!

TT: What do you like about working in the Toy industry?

PW: It's always cool to see products developed from films and TV shows that we also enjoy watching. From that aspect, it becomes much less of a "job".

CARRY AROUND THE WORLD'S CUTEST DEMOGORGON

Just like Dustin Henderson did in the Netflix smash hit series Stranger Things, you'll soon be able to carry around your very own Demogorgon!

Courtesy of McFarlane Toys, Dart will soon to be able to sit in the palm of your hand and will show off its iconic mouth and teeth when squeezed. Squeezable Dart is five inches long and features an exact likeness of the mysterious monster from the Upside Dart.

If you need a refresher from Hawkins, Indiana: Dart (named after one of the musketeers from The Three Musketeers, a reference to the Demo-dog's favorite candy) was found by Dustin in a trash can and soon became boy's secret pet. Dart appeared once again in the season finale at the Hawkins Laboratory.

It might be a bit before we get to return to Hawkins to revisit Dustin, Will, Mike, Max, Lucas, and Eleven. So, now when you get a little homesick for your favorite fictional town, you can carry a souvenir with Squeezable Dart.

We promise it'll turn your world Upside Down.

SAVE MONEY WITH INFINITY GAUNTLET BANK IN A SNAP

The Infinity Gauntlet is used in Avengers: Infinity War by Thanos to wipe out half of the population of the universe and caused some theatergoers to shed more than a few tears.

But for the rest of us, it'll help make some smart financial decisions.

Monogram International introduces the Infinity Gauntlet PVC Bank, featuring a near exact likeness to the gauntlet Thanos wields to wreak havoc on the universe. Avengers: Infinity War has become the highest grossing comic book movie of all-time and has left fans impatiently waiting for its untitled sequel in April 2019.

As the movie's box office haul has skyrocketed, so too has the popularity of Thanos, the intergalactic warlord desperate for universal balance. Josh Brolin's portrayal of the villain has garnered critical acclaim.

You'll be wanting to gather all the Thanos collectibles before the Avengers sequel drops next year, so this Infinity Gauntlet will help you save up.

No promises that it won't turn half of your money to dust.
